POINTS of PERSPECTIVE

Wandering tribes in ancient times used reference points, guideposts, to get them from one place to another as they began exploring the earth's vastness. As they advanced and matured, they added the stars to these points and that provided them more perspectives from which to learn and explore. As humankind became more advanced, we began adding signs and symbols to these points and building roads and vehicles in which to travel, making journeys and explorations shorter and adding even further perspectives to our base of knowledge.

Travel on earth is easier than it has ever been, and still our perspectives grow and change as cultures and traditions are explored and melted into the human race. We can now probe the depths of the oceans and the eternity of space and with every new discovery, our perspectives grow and change.

Wandering students enter the university each semester, on their lives' journeys, learning, growing and changing. We bring with us those points of reference, our values and traditions, we have grown up with so that we can find our way home, but the experiences we will encounter at the university will have a lasting impact on their perspectives and we will be forever changed.

Just as we grow as we matriculate at the university, MTSU is experiencing its own growth and change. From its humble beginnings as a state teachers' college, it has evolved into a major university, nationally recognized for many of its outstanding programs. Growth brings necessary change in perspectives, and we are finding that we must adjust to these new demands. New students, new professors, new administrators bring new perspectives, ever evolving from year to year.

These points of perspective are to be shared and gleaned from all who traverse the campus and its vast array of possible experiences. These perspectives contribute to the nature and culture of our university and allows for the each individual to develop his or her own uniqueness.

Points of perspective, we all have them, whether they are tangible guideposts or non-tangible opinions, plans or dreams.

Points of perspective ....

CUSTOMS 2003

by Andre Woods

During the early morning hours of the summer, the sound of road construction and early risers echoed in the ears of hundreds of incoming freshmen on the MTSU campus. They were on campus to attend CUSTOMS. The freshmen orientation program that started at the end of April and continued to the end of July.

The idea of the upcoming semester filled with the perils of registration, tests, notes and lectures ran through the students' minds. CUSTOMS is a chance to calm their worries and help them start looking forward to their first year at MTSU.

Acknowledging its 10-year anniversary, CUSTOMS was designed by the Student Development Office to provide a smooth transition into the MTSU environment for students and parents by offering early registration for classes, opportunity to learn their way around campus, a tour of the dorms, academic advising and a glimpse at student life on campus.

"I think that every incoming freshmen should come to CUSTOMS," said Charlie Lyons, one of the CUSTOMS student orientation assistants.

"They meet their best friends and peers, so when they come back to school, they see familiar faces," Lyons said.

An estimated 4,500 incoming students attended CUSTOMS, making it a great opportunity to meet others.

Incoming students are divided into 22 different groups which where named after various countries. Each of the 22 countries has a SOA, who are students who already attend MTSU, that lead the group through the planned events.

The orientation is a two-day event. The first day opened with a general assembly. The assembly looks like a geographic map of future MTSU students all representing different countries around the world. After being told the next two days events, students are sent on their way.

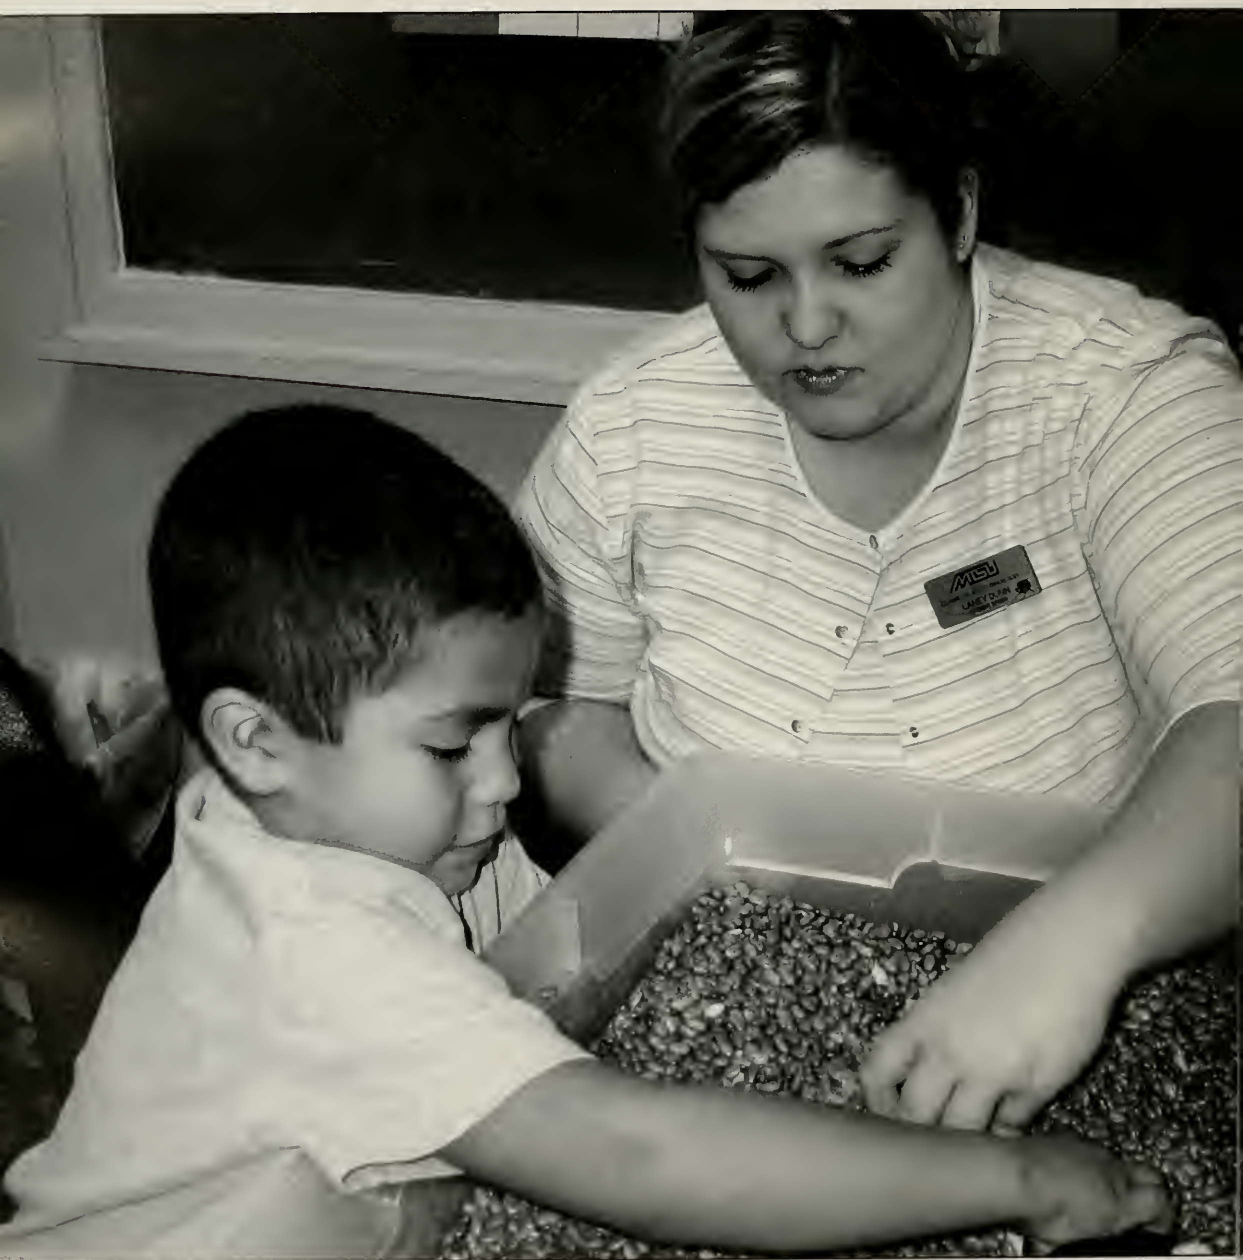
Students journey around campus to different Ports of Interest. The Ports of Interest are sessions created to inform the incoming students about MTSU. The sessions include topics about: the honors college, the MTSU band, disability service, health services and many other informative sessions.

The students are required to get stamps on their passports to complete the two-day event. At the end of the second day, students and parents attend a cookout at the Rec. Center where they get the last stamps at tables set up by MTSU organizations.

The incoming students also work on the most worried about matter when beginning college: their schedules. The students are divided by major and sent to academic advisors who help students plan their schedule for the upcoming semester.

"CUSTOMS was a very helpful program," said Jessica Spradlin, an incoming freshman, "I learned about parking, the food plan, the Raider Learning Community and so much more."

Speech, Language



& Hearing Clinic

Students help children with communication disorders

by Tabitha Taylor

The Speech-Language-Hearing Clinic has been around for 35 years. This year, Elizabeth Smith coordinated the clinic, located in the Boutwell Dramatic Arts building. Smith's job as coordinator is to do initial evaluation on the clients, to set up schedules for both the clients and the student clinicians, and to supervise the student clinicians along with many other supervisors.

"The communication disorders program at MTSU is the only program in the state of Tennessee that offers on- and off-campus clinical practicum at the undergraduate level," states Smith.

The clinic is open to anyone in the community and has 23 students involved this semester. These students provide the service and are in the treatment rooms working with the actual clients.

"Every student in the communication disorders major must complete at least 25 observation hours as a prerequisite for certain courses and the clinical practicum," explains senior clinician Ashley Lowe. "An 'observer' watches the student clinicians perform therapy and takes notes."

Lowe says she loves the clinic so much because she can help children. "To be able to design lesson plans that are beneficial yet enjoyable is a very interesting part of therapy," she smiles.

The senior students working in the clinic may go off-campus to clinical sites that include public schools, hospitals, long-term care facilities, and home health and outpatient rehabilitation. This is beneficial to the seniors in their future graduate work. "Our students are sought after by graduate programs because of their unique clinical experiences," says Smith.

Any of MTSU's faculty, staff and students may receive services at no charge, while fees for others are based on a scale according to the families' income, which makes the clinic very affordable.

Lowe admits that the way she learned of the MTSU Speech-Language-Hearing Clinic wasn't very exciting. "I had a different major and decided to change," she explains. "So I searched through the MTSU catalog for months and read and investigated every major that interests me. To make a long story short, I chose communication disorders and will never regret my choice."

Anonymous to some, friend to others.

There are a few unsung heroes at MTSU who almost remain anonymous to the vast majority, but would be vitally missed if they were no longer around. A perfect example would be the bus drivers who haul students from one end of the campus to the other, as well as taking them on field trips all over the state and beyond.

George Slaven is a bus driver with a cheery smile who says a friendly hello to every student who climbs onto his bus. A teamster with 30 years of service, Slaven decided he couldn't just stay home when he retired a couple of years ago. He thought that being a bus driver for MTSU students was a job he would enjoy. While he finds every day full of both funny moments and tiny annoyances, he has been doing it for two years and plans to continue.

"The best things about this job are the students. They are always polite and pleasant to me, and I enjoy them," he says. "I never have had to deal with anyone that is being rude."

Slaven is married with five children. Between working for MTSU, helping with the open high school van and spending time with his family, he doesn't have much time to participate in his favorite pastime, fishing.

It's interesting to realize that the bus drivers do more than just drive a bus around campus. For example, they assist disabled students who board the buses. "I am especially fond of the handicapped students," smiles Slaven. "They are really special to me. I can't really explain it, but I really care about them."

Bus drivers also lend a hand to unsure students by helping them find their cars when they are not sure in which parking lot they parked and telling them which bus to take when they ask how to get to a particular part of campus. It's good to have a friendly bus driver, such as George Slaven, as your friend.

Students pile onto a Raider Express bus so that they don't have to walk across campus to their classes and their cars.

Snow

No Classes

by Jason Manly

On January 16, a winter storm blew into Murfreesboro. Townspeople and students alike were panicking, not knowing how to handle the inches of snow accumulating on the roads and sidewalks. MTSU closed its campus for the day.

Hundreds of students stormed the open areas on campus, hurling snowballs left and right. Giant monuments were erected, paying homage to the gods of winter. Some monoliths reached ten feet tall, with oranges for eyes and 32-ounce bottles of malt beer dangling precariously from their mouths.

Roving hordes of warriors convened in glorious battle, and veritable boulders of snow rocketed through the air like so many cannon balls. Many men and women fell. Just then, amidst the screams and wild laughter, a great general rallied the competing gangs. "To Corlew,", he ordered, and all followed his lead. This battle was to define a generation, separating the true solders from cannon fodder.

Along the path, no moving bodies were spared. Any that opposed the roving mob were immediately fallen upon. Finally, the great horde reached Corlew, and true battle ensued. Four-wheeled vehicles whooshed by, hurling les boules des neiges upon the masses. And the people fought back, pelting any further cavalier cavalry units that parted the battlefields.

Suddenly, a police unit arrived. He sat in his shielded vehicle glowering at the writhing masses. Finally, he spoke, through a great loudspeaker: "Everybody beside the dormitory move across the street to the field." Some spoke up, shouting curses and threats to him. "Everyone who does not want to go to jail needs to cross the street," he offered in retort. At this point, screaming sirens filled the air. Three large red firefighting vehicles arrived, flanked by two police units and a medic.

Following this arrival of highly skilled adversaries, many warriors, including myself, fled the scene. Having wreaked havoc across the campus, the mob was finally put to a halt. But all those involved left with both adrenaline coursing through their veins and a deeper sense of accomplishment and togetherness. The great Snow Day of 2003 will always be remembered and cherished.

Dance Class

by Jessy Yancey

Dance is a necessity!" exclaims Angela Armstrong, instructor of a variety of dance classes offered through the HPERS program. "Dance is a nearly universal behavior with a history probably as old as humanity itself."

Armstrong teaches almost every type of dance class that one can imagine: social, modern, jazz, ballet, aerobic, Pilates and country line dance. Each class is worth one HPER credit, but some, such as modern, ballet and jazz, can be taken as intermediate as well as beginner. Social is the most popular, but Armstrong says most of her classes are equally inviting: "My classes are always packed."

Although she has been involved in dance training since age 4, Armstrong never knew how much she would love teaching dance until she came here. Having taken dance credits to fulfill the activity requirements when she was in school here, she went on to a different job and later was called upon to study and perhaps teach dance. "So, I did and ended up finding the thing I love most...teaching!" she says with excitement.

"Basically, I try to give an overview of historical influences," says Armstrong. She focuses her classes on origin, cultural influences, individual contributions and so forth. "I also incorporate anatomy, kinesiology and pedagogy," she continues. "Mainly, I focus on the application of basic dance principles and techniques. Really, we just have a lot of fun!"

Fun must be really important when it comes to dance. Lisa Lewis, another HPERS dance teacher, also says that she focuses on fun. Lewis, who has performed in many musicals, with an afro-jazz dance company in New York and at Opryland in Nashville, teaches ballet, tap and jazz.

"The ballet I teach is primary," she says. She teaches the positions, posture and body alignment. She also shows how to do leaps and turns.

She also teaches the basic foundations of tap, which are step, rhythm and sound. "Tap has the quickest learning curve," reveals Lewis. "Every student I've taught is amazed at how they excel in tap."

The jazz dance taught by Lewis is a musical theater type. She teaches basic technique, turns, leaps and combinations, all of which are then put with music, ranging from 40s to theater music to lyrical jazz.

"Not everyone will be professional," she says, "but everyone can have fun. I focus on enjoyment. I want to show what I have done all my life to those who have never done it."

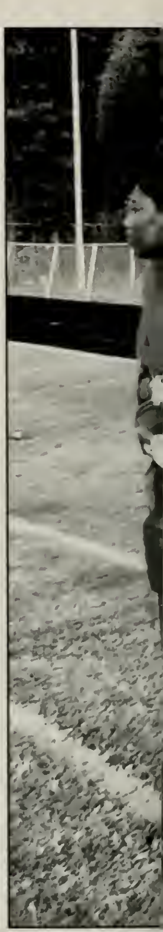
Tennessee HEAT

by Andre Woods



Are you ready for some football? Football is one of the world's most aggressive and powerful sports. Players of the game must contain great stamina, strength and endurance, while thinking strategically to defeat their opponents. It is also a sport that is mostly dominated by men. Tackling the issue of male domination in football is the National Women's Football League and the emergence of Tennessee Heat.

The thought of playing the game of football is bringing women from all over the state, including several of MTSU's own, to the Tennessee Heat. Lakisha Langster, who plays offensive fullback, and defensive middle linebacker, is a graduate of MTSU with a degree in journalism. "First, I went out for a story for the Tennessean newspaper, and then I ended up making the team," she says. Nicknamed the "Quietstorm," Lakisha is considered one the Heat's best football players.

Tomeka Davis plays offensive wide receiver and defensive strong safety. "I'm a rookie, this is my first year, I saw an advertisement over the Internet and decided to come out." Tomeka is also a graduate of MTSU who says she just loves football. "I have no prior experience, but I love football, born and raised around it and would just like to experience it."

Danielle Hopkins is a senior at MTSU who plays tailback. "My major is electronic media communication, I want to be a sportscaster," she explains. Danielle says she saw on television that a women's football team was having tryouts and decided to go. "I went through the tryout process, which was lengthy, and ended up making the team." Danielle says she has always been athletic, playing both softball and soccer, so football was just the next step.

Danielle and Lakisha have been playing football for the Tennessee Heat, formerly known as the Nashville Dream, for four years now. Coach Tim Dickerson is also an MTSU alum who played football for the Blue Raiders. He says the difference between men and women's football is that women are more thorough, which makes it a different level of the sport, although it is played exactly the same, full tackle and all.

Games start in May, and the game schedule is posted on the Heat's website. So if you want to experience our nation's favorite sport from a new perspective, check out the Tennessee Heat.

Nude Models

by Sarah Palmer

Drawing the human body is a test in itself

The class titled "studio drawing" seems innocent enough. Just sit in a room and draw, right? Well, you might be in for a shock when you walk into class one day and see a naked person standing in front of you, waiting to be drawn by you. As a matter of fact, this is almost the entirety of the class.

As shocking as it may sound, nude models are actually numerous and have quite a large role in the art department. Drawing the naked body is a skill the art department wants its students to learn.

"The human figure is the most used figure in Western art, and it's the one we identify with the most," says Mark Price, the chair of the art department. "Drawing the human figure is the litmus test for the artist."

Real models are used so that the students can get the complete picture and dimensions instead of looking at a two dimensional picture. Bone structure, lines and balance are all stressed as points for the students to look at.

"The figure has all shapes and forms of nature," continues Price, "and when you have a live model you have an infinite number of angles from which to depict the model."

Even though it can be a bit embarrassing, standing in a studio with a nude model standing in the middle of the room, students quickly get used to the idea.

Senior McLean Fahnestock explains, "It's weird for the first half hour, after that it's more about shapes, lines and proportions. The model becomes an object, you're not really drawing the person, you are drawing the pose, proportions and muscles."

"It's all about anatomy, how muscles attach to bones, how joints work, how the body carries weight that you can't see through clothing," adds senior Pon Sirivong, an apparel design major.

But what about the models? It must feel awkward to stand in front of a group of people naked than to look at someone in the nude. As odd as the job is, the art department has many people modeling for its classes. Most are students, but there are some who are older and who do not even attend MTSU. The people who model are slightly more often female.

One junior graphic design and psychology major has been modeling with the art department for a year. She started modeling nude for only her friends or other people in the art department who asked her, but when her drawing instructor approached her about modeling for the department, she skeptically agreed.

"My first time, I was really nervous. I had no idea what I was doing or what they wanted me to do," she says.

"Oddly enough, once I was naked and on the platform, it wasn't so bad," she recalls. "People aren't looking at you and seeing a naked woman. They see relationships of lines and where your belly button is in relation to the curve of your hip. It's such a nonsexual thing you almost feel clothed."

Even though she admits it is a little awkward running into people she has modeled for in grocery stores, she claims, "It was an enriching experience." That seems to be the general consensus with everyone connected with the nude models. "I think a lot of people are scared to take the class," says Fahnestock, "but I love it."

Numerous bands from the Murfreesboro area tried to make it to the finals in the Battle of the Bands, held at Sports Planet. Eight bands made it to the last two days of the competition in mid-January. Popular Genius, Sky Hi, OJ Kids and E. C. Project battled the first night to win first place among themselves. Hollywood, Unsound, Overzealous and Spooky Johnson battled to win the second night. On the third night, the winners of the whole competition where announced. OJ Kids came in second place, with Overzealous coming in first. Both bands were solely comprised of MTSU students who are majoring in various fields.

New director of women's center

wants everyone to participate

by Linda G. Selby

There is a certain amount of energy and excitement in the air at the June Anderson Women's Center. Dr. Susan Trentham, the new director for the center, is hoping to work together with various groups and departments to find a way to define the center's needs, to set up programs to promote education and awareness of gender/race related issues.

"One of the biggest challenges most women's centers face is letting people know that they are on campus and are an advocate for women and their needs," explains Dr. Trentham. "I look upon this place as a place to provide assistance to students and be able to refer them to the proper services whatever the need."

Dr. Trentham originally hails from Huntsville, Ala., but has spent the last nine years in Reno, Nev., where she was an active participant in women's issues during her college career. She was a graduate assistant in the University of Nevada's women's resource center while she worked on her doctorate in social psychology.

After receiving her doctorate, she worked with a non-profit, statewide crisis call center dealing with problems such as suicide, child abuse, elder abuse and sexual assault. She received a great deal of administrative skills in this position and felt that a move to MTSU was the next step in her area of interest and experience.

"Women do not live in a vacuum," she says. "In order to address issues that empower women, we must reach both sexes. After all, many of the topics often referred to as 'women's issues' actually involve or impact both women and men."

Trentham wants to get the word out about the center and wants both women and men to participate in many of the planned programs.

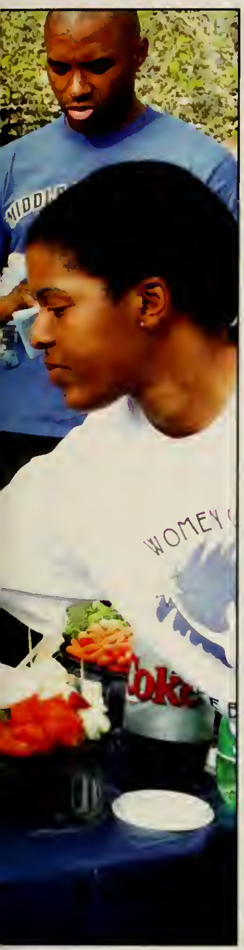
Knoll



by Jessica Moore

The Knoll--though it seems as though it is nothing but a morsel of land, to students at MTSU it is much more. The Knoll is the one place that everyone is sure to visit at some point or another during his or her day. It is a convenient stopping place for any given reason. Students can feel free to sit at the tables or on benches to study or just to watch interesting people who pass by.

The Knoll is a great place to meet new people or to socialize with those you have already met. Because it is free, unlike so many other places, students can take advantage of The Knoll without it taking advantage of their empty wallets. The trees provide just the right amount of shade during those stifling, sticky, summer months when everyone is miserable from the heat, and the tables and chairs provide the right amount of comfort for those students who are forced to trek from Murphy Center to the library.

Numerous vendors, selling everything from posters to jewelry, have discovered the importance of The Knoll, setting up booths and luring unsuspecting college students to spend money they don't possess.

On the other hand, student organizations and clubs have also learned the value of The Knoll. There is enough open space for all students to have the ability to share any news or happenings with the uninformed. While some students could care less, many students become involved in activities outside their norm because they just happened to be in the right place at the right time.

Although it seems as though it is nothing more than a minuscule piece of land, The Knoll is one of the most significant points on campus. Students are able to participate in a variety of interesting activities while meeting new people and observing others. There are no rules. Everyone is welcome. The Knoll is a free, come-as-you-are, easy-going kind of place that many students at MTSU have come to enjoy.

New Wal-Mart Brings Traffic Woes

Along with Convenience

WAL*MART
SUPERCENTER

by Jessica Lambert

February 2003 rolls around and the new Wal-Mart opens near campus. Needless to say, this affects students that live on and off campus. Whether it makes a trip to Wal-Mart more convenient or jams traffic for those traveling to their apartments and homes off campus. everyone had an opinion about the new facility. Both commuters and on-campus students have mixed feelings about the newly opened store and the small strip mall that is evolving around it.

Johnathan Risner, an MTSU sophomore, lives across the street from the Wal-Mart on South Rutherford Boulevard. "There is a very large abundance of traffic," he says. This can be difficult for off-campus commuters, especially since finding a parking space takes up enough time as it is. Risner also sees the bright side of his situation, however, and says, "If I ever decide I need Fruity Pebbles at 3:15 a.m., I can go right across the street. Wal-Mart is convenient."

On-campus life is definitely not as disrupted due to the opening. Meagan Wright a psychology major says that she likes the new Wal-Mart closer to campus because "it is easier for me and my friends to go shopping. We don't have to drive all the way across town and fight the traffic at the Broad Street intersection."

For most of the MTSU campus, Wal-Mart is just another 24-hour store that can quell the sea of boredom rising among students at four in the morning. Is it convenient now that it is close to campus? Of course. But in the same instance, it causes headaches for students that travel from home and school.

Left: The new Wal-Mart on South Rutherford Boulevard provided on-campus students with a closer venue where they could find everything. Previously, students would have to go across town to find the store that contained everything from flip flops to mouth wash. However, this caused problems for students that had to commute from home to school.

Festivities

HOMECOMING
MTSU
HOLLYWOOD

It's the time of year again when the campus turns into a sea of blue and white. It can only mean one thing: homecoming week has arrived. For many students, this week means sacrificing hours of free time and sleep to help student organizations prepare for the festivities, but it is great for all involved.

"It promotes school spirit," says student Maria Hargis, "and helps bring students together." This week provides students the opportunity to display their school spirit, while supporting Blue Raider football.

The theme of this year's homecoming was Hollywood, and, as always, there were a wide variety of events in which students could compete. Some of the main events during homecoming week included the fight song competition, a powder-puff football game, an extreme Frisbee competition, a cabaret costume ball and a penny drive, which raised funds for the American Heart Association.

It's not just students who take part in homecoming. Many of the faculty and staff get involved by taking part in the office-decorating competition.

Every year homecoming is concluded with a parade and football game. Fittingly, this year's festivities had an ending some might say was right out of the movies. There was the crowning of the king and queen, Justin Richmond and Jennifer Secrest. If that was not enough, the Blue Raiders defeated New Mexico State 35-18 to pick up their first victory of the season. Who says happy ending only happen in Hollywood?

The Music Man

by Tabitha Taylor

On September 25, 2003, the doors to Tucker Theatre were open, and the stage was enlightened with the musical singing of a group of extremely talented actors and actresses performing the classic "The Music Man." The performance was put on through October 3, and, of these, two were performances for Nissan, one was for family weekend, and one was a high school matinee. The rest were open to the general public, including MTSU students, for a total of ten performances.

"It's your All-American 50s show: boy meets girl, they fall in love and they live happily ever after," states Dale McGilliard, director of the production. "The Music Man" is a comical show about a traveling salesman that keeps the audience on the edge of their seats. Some of the songs in the play include "Shipoopi," "Till There Was You," "Gary, Indiana" and "Ya Got Trouble."

Professor Harold Hill, played by actor Jon Romero, is a traveling salesman who attempts to scam a small town in Iowa. He wants to make up a band with the small children in the town and get their parents to pay for instruments and band uniforms. Because Professor Hill cannot play an instrument at all, he plans to collect his money and run.

"Ya Got Trouble" is Romero's favorite song to sing. "It is so hard," explains the actor. "Any night, I know that I have to be on my toes in order to perform this song whether it be at rehearsals or in the show because it is so hard, and I want to perfect it."

Co-star Megan Bowers plays the role of Marian Paroo, the reclusive librarian. Bowers is the heartthrob girl who buries herself in her books at the library she inherited through family friends. She does not open up to anyone until she meets Professor Hill, who changes her life. "I relate to my character in that she takes love and relationships very serious as I do," states Bower.

Marian gives piano lessons at her house where she lives with her mother and brother Winthrop, played by seven-year-old Caleb Peterson. "He's got a lisp, and he doesn't talk very much," says Caleb. Winthrop takes a liking to Professor Hill, who helps him change to an outspoken boy from the shy, quiet boy he was before. Marian's mom loves Professor Hill for helping her son and wants Marian to take an interest in him. Marian refuses at first, but, as the story unwinds, she falls in love with him.

The technical group played a very important role in making this play work. The set was rented from a company, and it took the technical crew two or three days to assemble it. Unlike most productions, the technical crew stayed busy at all times working on set changes. In past performances, when there were one or two changes, the crew did not play as big of a role. "The Music Man" had 17 scene changes, so the behind-the-scenes crew stayed busy at all times.

"The set is unique because we have more set changes then ever before," states McGilliard. "The last play had only two or three, but this one has several. Also, the play is unique because the actors and actresses have brought a lot of new ideas to the table which have made this production successful." McGilliard has directed this particular play three times now but says this has been one of his favorite groups of actors and actresses to work with.

These actors and crewmembers put at least 125 hours into this production. Through four weeks of rehearsal, the actors came together to make the performance of a lifetime run as smoothly as possible and to make a lasting impression on their audience.

Tattoos & Piercings

Popular trend with college students

by Jessica Lambert

Bikers on their Harleys are not the only ones sporting ink anymore. Tattoos are popping up across America, and the MTSU campus is no exception. But why are an increasing number of students deciding to permanently mark their bodies? For many of them, it is more than just rebellion.

Reasons for getting a tattoo vary from person to person, but MTSU students seem to have a few common goals in mind when making their decision. Some want to remember the college experience, some want to be different, and some just find them interesting. A few students list friends having tattoos as one of the determining factors. Getting ink, however, is a personal choice and essentially comes down to students deciding for themselves.

Daniel Cook, an MTSU junior, has a tribal design on his back. He says that, after getting piercings, a tattoo seemed like the next step. He also notes that one of his friends had decided to get a tattoo, and after a few months, he made up his mind to do the same. When asked about his reasons for choosing his back as the location for the tattoo, Cook explains, "as long as you can't see it, you don't get tired of it." Strategically choosing placement for a tattoo is one way to avoid the consequences that come along with getting one, such as difficulty getting a job and growing tired of the design.

Tattoos are becoming less permanent as technology and skill increases, which is one reason that the number of students with tattoos is steadily climbing. Miranda Krump, office manager at Murfreesboro's Icon body piercing and tattoo studio, says, "You can get just about anything covered up by the tattoo artists." One thing that sets Icon above the competition for students getting tattoos is word of mouth. Krump explains that many students bring in their friends or come back for additional tattoos. The artists have years of experience, and the shop itself has a flawless health record since opening. It also doesn't hurt that Icon has coupons in the booklets handed out at the bookstore during the beginning of the semester.

One concern that is raised pertains to where students get the money for tattoos. Krump says that students on average only spend about $100-$200 on their designs, depending on how complicated it is. Most students tend to get flash designs, which are pre-drawn pictures that customers can usually pick off of the wall and have the tattoo artist adjust to suit them. Jeremiah Scott, a senior at MTSU, has an extensive amount of ink work done, including a full arm sleeve. When asked why he had decided on so much custom work, he answers that it was a point of interest for him. Scott says he is not worried about getting a job. "I'm a recording major, and it doesn't really matter," he explains. "If someone won't hire me because of my tattoos, I don't want to work for them."

According to Krump, males and females make up an equal amount of the clientele at Icon. She adds that butterflies and stars are popular with females, and fraternity letters, dragons and tribal designs are common for males. Krump has also noted a definite trend in the placement of tattoos among students, who make up of the majority of Icon's business. Males generally get tattooed on the deltoid or shoulder blades, while females usually choose the ankle or the small of the back.

It seems that the number of students getting tattoos will not be decreasing, and as more students get ink, more will want it. MTSU seems to be moving right along with the popularity of permanent tattoos, so keep looking for ink on campus because it will not be disappearing any time soon.

Culture Week

Students Celebrate Cultural Diversity

The week of April 7-12 brought bagpipes, ratatouille, and Chinese dancers to campus as people celebrated the 13th annual International Culture Week and Banquet.

The International Programs and Services Office organizes the week's activities and banquet every year. Angie Melton, assistant director of IPSO, was the main planner for this year's event.

"The main purpose of the week is dual," Melton says. "First, it is a chance to make the campus more aware of cultural diversity and the positive things international students bring to our campus. Second, it is a chance to introduce our international students to the American culture."

It held a coffee hour that was open to everyone on campus. The event was sponsored by outside organizations that brought snack foods for students to enjoy.

The coffee hour not only helped students get acquainted with community members, but it also gave them the opportunity to know and understand each other better. Students spent much of the time talking about where they were from and how different it is from the U.S.

Overall, organizers and students alike were pleased with the week's activities. Salome Sandoval, an international student from Venezuela, commented, "I enjoyed all the activities, like the bagpipes performance by Michael McNutt, as well as the great dinners and the movies."

The week came to a conclusion by the international banquet, held in the James Union Building. Guests were served a variety of ethnic foods. Also, country exhibit tables were set up for guests to view as they arrived.

"It gives us a chance to show our culture, our country, what we are," said Siriluck Paocharoen and Assaleenuch Larpcharoen, international students from Tibet.

Speakers throughout the night included Melton; Nwadwa Al-Jundi, a non-traditional international student from Syria; and Dr. Tech Webneh, director of IPSO.

International entertainment was featured at the banquet. Spanish guitar music, a kimono demonstration and many Chinese dances performed by the Chinese Arts Alliance of Nashville were featured, as well as a Croatian band named Boduli.

"I think it is an excellent week to enjoy our nationalities and show them to all our friends," said Sandoval, who performed Spanish music and flamenco dances.

"Why do we have this celebration? Because the world has changed and the world continues to change," said Webneh in his speech.

Storms

The trees came down and the floods came up

by Amy Taylor

MTSU was literally underwater as Mother Nature saw fit to drown Middle Tennessee with heavy rainfall and torment the state with high winds and deadly tornadoes at the beginning of Intercession. Canoes, kayaks, and whitewater gear were much more necessary on campus than automobiles to navigate the roadways turned waterways during the early weeks of May. On Sunday May 4 the National Weather Service reported a deadly tornado had touched down in Jackson, Tennessee around 8:00 P.M. Eleven fatalities and extensive property damage resulted from the storm. The Associated Press reported that on May 5 the storm front produced heavy winds and downpours across Tennessee. Three people died in Cannon County when highway 145 flooded. Then on Thursday May 8, President Bush declared 20 Tennessee counties to be disaster areas.

But, on Sunday May 11, the storm hit close to campus. The Associated Press then reported that three tornadoes struck Middle Tennessee early Sunday, leveling homes and toppling trees and power lines. The strongest of these tornadoes touched down in Walter Hill, Tennessee about eight miles from campus. The National Weather Service reported winds at 200 mph and classified the tornado as an F3. The tornado's path was reported to be a mile long and 400 yards wide.

The MTSU campus showed that it took a mighty strong beating from this storm, too. Parking lots were underwater. The Bell Street parking lot was transformed into a lake in a matter of hours with continuous downpours of rain. Huge trees that stood on campus for decades were toppled by the wind's fury or had their gigantic trunks uprooted.

On-campus recuperation lasted for the remainder of the week. Maintenance staff worked full force in straightening up the ravaged campus that Mother Nature left behind.

UNIVERSITY TROLLEY

by Julie Jenkins

Been partying a little too hard and need a safe way to get home, but can't bum a ride and don't want to wait for a taxi? There is now a new option: ride the trolly. Although University Trolly is not a university-sanctioned enterprise, it is providing a valuable service for many students.

Having started in the fall of 2003, the trolly is new to MTSU and the city of Murfreesboro, but it is not the first program of its kind. There are similar services provided at a number of colleges throughout the United States. Ben Burner, who started the trolly service here, originally intended for it to be a parking shuttle service, but he saw a greater need. "I knew a lot of people with DUIs and it kind of haunted me," explains Burner. "Now I am giving them a way out, there is no reason to drink and drive."

The trolly service may be new, but it is already a great success. They have already added a second vehicle to help handle demand. The trolly runs nightly from 7p.m. until 2 or 3 a.m. and goes to almost every bar in Murfreesboro. There is a small fee of $5 per student per ride, or students can purchase a $25 pass that is good for the entire school year.

"I knew this would work," says Burner. "I knew the students would love it, but the positive response from the police department and members of the community has been an unexpected surprise." University Trolly may have been started for college students, but it has clearly had a positive effect on the entire community of Murfreesboro.

Internships & Practicums

by Sandi Van Orden

After years of school, we will all enter the world to begin our chosen careers. Will we be ready? How are we going to make sure we get the job we want?

One way to decide is by working at an internship or practicum. Not only can a student receive credit for these jobs, but these positions also serve as a great way to gain experience for your chosen career.

Jason Duggon is a television production major and has an internship with CMT.com. Duggon believes that he is gaining experience that he would otherwise not receive in a classroom setting.

"It's a lot of junk work, but I think it's a great idea, just to get an idea of what the real world experience is going to be like [... ;] no matter what kind of field you go into, you definitely get some idea of what's going to be out there more so than you get pretending in class," explains Duggon. In television production, it is required that students perform an internship, and Duggon was fine with that.

"To get real world experience, you can't just jump right out there. You have to start your connections somewhere," says Duggon.

While Duggon has the opportunity to receive credit for his internship not all students work in their fields for credit. Heather Kimber, a nursing major, is currently performing an externship at St. Thomas Hospital. She is not receiving credit but is gaining knowledge and experience that will help her once she becomes a nurse.

"Currently, I assist the nurses in giving patient care that ranges from giving a bath [to helping] get people ready if they are going in for surgery. I cannot do a lot of nursing activities just because you have to be a nurse to be able to do so many things. But I at least get to see the nurse do it, and they all explain things to me so it's really helpful for me when I go to clinical," says Kimber. Not only is Kimber taught by nurses as they are working with patients, but her externship also gives her insight into what kind of nursing she might like to do after she graduates.

Internships, practicums and externships can give you the opportunity to experience what kind of work you will be doing after you graduate. They can help you to gain knowledge and experience that you might not be able to get from the classroom alone.

Unique Jobs
on campus

by Christina Rees

MTSU offers a great learning environment, but it also offers a variety of ways to earn money. Many of the obvious jobs include secretarial positions, library student workers and dining room attendants, but there are many others to choose from.

Megan Allen, a senior, is employed as a math tutor at Student Support Services. She helps students by going over homework, preparing for tests and explaining what they missed on previous tests. In the two years that she has been in this position, she says, "Seeing the faces of my students when the light bulb finally goes off is one of the greatest aspects of the job."

Behind the front desk at the Rec. Center, freshman Lauren Gaines has many responsibilities. Her job is to watch students scan their ID cards, check out equipment and answer the phones. On occasion, she files accident reports and assists in emergencies.

While most jobs offered on campus do not require training, the position of lifeguard does require extra skills. You must complete a course to even be considered. Joshua Caleb Northcutt, a junior, has been giving swimming lessons and working as a lifeguard instructor since August 2003. The major responsibilities are patron safety, keeping the chemicals in balance and cleaning. Working on a summer tan is one of the perks of this job, not to mention that this job is flexible and keeps you in shape. "One drawback is that they don't give you a lot of hours," says Northcutt, "but the pay is enough for gas money."

No matter what students' needs or interests are, there is an opportunity to earn a living as they receive their educations.

Footbag Net

by Jennifer Neas

New Sport Comes to Campus

Footbag net is a new American sport that originated in Oregon only 30 years ago. In 1972, John Stalberger met Mike Marshall, who taught him a game that he had learned from a local Native American. This game consisted of taking a bean bag and juggling it with his feet, arms, hands and head.

Over the next few months, Stalberger and Marshall improved the game and began to design a product called Hacky Sack.

They then decided to create a game called footbag, which combined volleyball and tennis into one game.

Players play on a badminton court and volley the beanbag over the net with only their feet. Players are only allowed three kicks per side and must alternate kicks. The footbag can not have contact with the player's body above the knee.

Beginning when "Good Morning America" recognized the game in 1976, footbag clubs have formed in numerous communities all over the United States.

Murfreesboro is one of the communities that just recently added a club.

Elliot Johns is one of the founding members of the local chapter. Not wanting to take credit for such a responsibility, the 22-year-old says, "I just like to play the game."

He defines it as the only sport where players can "show off and share at the same time." Since then, Johns has played the game with friends and gone to a few tournaments around the area.

In November, 2002, he and three friends began to organize games of footbag net on the campus tennis courts.

Johns then got on the footbag website and discovered a club in Manchester. Now, the members alternate between playing at Rosewood Apartments in Murfreesboro and in Manchester.

Another way that the members decided to promote the sport of freestyle and footbag net was to create circles around campus on Fridays. This is where they will pass the hacky sack around in a circle while performing tricks. Anyone that passes by is free to join in the game.

Left: One of the original members of the Footbag Net Club was prepared to volley the hackey sack back to his opponent, but the hackey sack did not make it all the way over the net. Being ready no matter what happens during the game was often the difference between winning and losing a match.

Online Dating

by Courtney Johnston

Online dating has become as common as fast food. It's almost impossible to escape. Just like the Mickey Ds on every corner, it seems every website has a link to an online dating service. VH1 devoted an entire episode of a show to "The Wild World of Online Dating," Jane magazine published an article about fake photos posted on dating sites and it's impossible to check one's e-mail without passing by pictures of beautiful smiling couples always looking so deliriously happy. All of this makes it easy to believe the dating industry when they say that 18 percent of everyone on the web has gone online to beat the single blues.

Internet matchmaking services have honed their business down to a science. Whether you define yourself as a cowboy, senior citizen, Christian or beatnik, whatever your nationality, race, color or creed, there is an online dating service designed specifically for you. You can search by locality, age, build or even hair color if you so desire. The options of dating pursuit have expanded far beyond regular old phone dating to the sophisticated virtual date, a private and personal questionnaire that asks about things like politics and children so that touchy subjects don't have to be brought up on the first date.

No matter how sophisticated or specific the questionnaires and ads become, the whole system still relies on the honesty of its users. Website managers encourage daters to answer questions truthfully and post recent photos, but that's no guarantee. Who wants to admit to a felony or, in less extreme cases, a little extra weight when looking for love? Once the character of fellow user is called into question, so is safety. Nearly every dating website has at least one page of safety tips. Despite the posted warnings, everyone still can watch the 5 o'clock news and see the briefs on young people murdered by their dates.

Do the benefits outweigh the potential costs? "I wouldn't do it," says MTSU student Michelle Hillhouse, "There's a lot of risk involved. You get a false sense of security thinking you know somebody more than you really do." However, according to LOVEatFIRSTclick.com, "The market research has … shown that users of online dating services report being more optimistic, having had more dates and are more likely to be seeking a long-term commitment or marriage than are non-users of online dating services. In short, online dating seems to make finding dates and feeling good about our romantic futures a little easier."

Collecting Stories from Veterans

by Sandi Van Orden and Amy Taylor

A soldier's handbook dated July 23, 1941 and a Sidelines article from 1946 are among many items found at the Albert Gore, Sr. Research Center to commemorate the contributions made by the veterans of our country's military service. Each picture and display is a small piece of history that has its own story to tell. As of March 2002, the Gore Research Center has been designated as an official partner with the Library of Congress's Veterans History Project. Items have been collected within the last 2 years to honor the U.S. military service.

Gore Center provides an opportunity that most students will not receive from history books. Executive Aide to the Gore Center Betty Rowland contributes, "You can read statistics and numbers, but you don't get the story."

Within the Gore Center, the stories unfold about two particular veterans, who just happen to be women. Lin Folk served in the first groups of Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service (WAVES) during World War II. Folk was a link trainer who worked with U.S. Air Force pilots. For training purposes, pilots would be in a small plane-like machine with the instrument panels that simulates an airplane. Each pilot would be linked with a trainer who would tell the pilot the altitude and speed at which they should be traveling. Some of the letters Folk sent home during her time as a trainer now serve as important memorabilia for the Gore Center. Folk comments about reading her own letters after years out of the service: "It was like reading someone else's life. It was so long ago."

Aside from Lin Folk, Rowland has also interviewed Barbara Robinson of Texas, formerly a member of Women Air Force Service Pilots (WASP). During WWII, Robinson delivered planes, but at that time, she was not considered to be in military service. Rowland explained that as opposed to someone in the service, if anything had happened to Robinson while on duty, the government did nothing. However, in 1977, in recognition of their service, the women who served as a WASP received government veteran's status.

When the Gore Center first began collecting stories, it was of former MTSU students. The most recent interviews have been with World War II veterans, including Lin Folk and Barbara Robinson. Rowland emphasized the importance of these interviews because one day these people who lived through and contributed to the history of our nation will not be with us. According to the Library of Congress, "The number of veterans dwindles by 1,500 everyday." All the more reason to recognize opportunities to advance our knowledge of our country's history and celebrate the freedoms for which our veterans so diligently fought.

NATIVE Pow wow

The Native American Pow wow, held annually in the Tennessee Livestock Center on MTSU's campus, began in 1995. Wendy Shunn-Hannah, a former student, had the vision to put together a small pow wow. This grew into a large event attended by people from various states. Its purpose is to celebrate heritage and culture of Native American groups. photos by Brady Purnell

Student Programming helps the festival by lending volunteers, but does not provide any financial backing. The festival is only provided with seed money from the university. All participants must pay their way to the event and lodging during their stay. Participants usually traveled from Georgia, North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Oklahoma and Minnesota.

DRINKING on campus

by Carter Fort

We all know what alcohol is. Whether or not we've actually experienced the sheer joy of vomiting several liters of Jagermeister into the toilet of an unknown host's bathroom, we've at least heard stories about the idiot with a lampshade on his head stumbling over the keg and breaking furniture. We've all had some exposure to it.

We, the people of that special class of the city known as the "college town," are faced with booze everyday. For instance, anyone who has ever driven past Ruby Tuesday's has seen the sign promoting their two-for-one drinks. Unfortunately, after enjoying that particular drink special, you are then released right into the worst intersection in Middle Tennessee. Heavy traffic and lengthy waits are probably not going to mix well with the eight drinks for the price of four that you just consumed.

Also, every time we leave our cars in any parking lot for a period of time, we return to see that a square mile of rainforest has been leveled in order to print all the fliers promoting local bars and their drink specials that are stuck under our windshield wipers. The result? According to the Office of Student Affairs, a projected 70.1% of the students who attend MTSU partake in alcoholic consumption.

Why is that a bad thing? As we all know, it is illegal to possess, consume or even think about alcohol until you have reached the magical age of 21. But what of the capricious youths who venture into bars with fake IDs or go to friends' houses that have twelve-packs of Natural Light or, the truly brave ones, who go to the dorms at MTSU in order to find some social lubricant?

Well, that all depends. If you are an off-campus student who gets drunk and drives onto campus, getting caught would not be in your best interest. The Office of Student Affairs will handle you and, depending on some adjudicating factors, will punish you. Is this the first time you've been caught? Are you on probation? Did you break anything while you were drunk, possibly the bones of a fellow human being? Fitch says that each situation is taken on a point by point basis.

So where are the students who report the drunk kids? Where are the nerdy kids with the taped-up glasses and pocket protectors, making sure that no one is having any fun anywhere? Guess what. It's not your fellow student who gets you in trouble. That's right, the campus police report most of the cases of on-campus drinking. Why aren't any good Samaritans speaking up? In order to bust someone for drinking, students have to write a report themselves, and who wants to leave themselves open to that kind of ridicule?

But fear not, even if the campus police catch you, you're not necessarily going to jail. The school's policy is to allow the "arresting" officer to determine whether or not to file formal charges with the city. So you could perhaps get out of any potential charges by sweet-talking or crying to the man in blue who picks you up.

Freshman DEPRESSION

Too many responsibilities their first year

by Sarah Palmer

Upperclassmen may think that freshmen have it easy. Most are only taking general requirements before they get to the really hard upper level classes. Not as many have to pay the rent and utilities bill at the end of the month. But freshmen don't have it quite as easy as one would think. Many are completely new to Murfreesboro, and a majority are fresh out of high school. With so many different experiences and factors to adjust to, many freshmen get to feeling a bit overwhelmed and stressed.

For one, it's many freshmen's first time away from home, and they are in a completely new environment. According to freshman Katy Hamlett, "The scariest thing about this year is that everything is new — new people, new city, new everything."

Getting adjusted academically can also be a trying process. Classes are at completely different times of the day, instead of the seven-hour school day from high school. It takes a lot more effort on the students' parts to get to classes on time and to do well in the classes. Hamlett says, "Unlike high school, you don't have anyone breathing down your neck about doing your homework or getting up in the morning. You have to take that responsibility on yourself." Veronica Smarts, also a freshman, says, "The hardest thing for me is adjusting to the new time schedules and study habits."

However, we all know that schoolwork isn't the only thing that takes up college students' time. Social lives are a big part of the college experience. But many freshmen don't know very many students at MTSU. It's a pretty scary thing not knowing anyone. Therefore, new friends and social circles must be made. Even though this will talk a little bit of time, Hamlett is very hopeful. "Making friends is kind of a slow process for me, but I know in the long run that if I just be myself I'll come out with some good friends," she says.

Now, let's combine all these factors together. Academics, social lives, home lives and jobs can get a person feeling swamped. Since many new freshmen are not used to the course load they take in college and have many other activities, some may spread themselves too thin. "I feel a little bit of pressure between my life at home and my schoolwork," says Hamlett. "It's kind of hard to find a balance."

Fortunately for many freshmen, they do find their balance sooner or later. Looking back on her freshman year, sophomore Sara McCarty recalls, "I had three honors classes, two of which were sophomore level and was working 20 hours a week. It was a lot of pressure." But she made it through all right after learning good study habits to pass her classes. However, Hamlett dropped one of her classes the first few weeks of school. "I was taking 16 hours," she says, "but between working and adjusting, I ended up dropping a class."

But all you really have to do to survive college, according to freshman Amanda Quick, is to "find your own groove." And just hope it doesn't take too long!

Awareness Week

by Jessy Yancey

"It feels good to know that you might influence someone's life in a positive way," explains junior Tennisha Smith, the coordinator of Sexual Assault Awareness Week. The week, which lasted from April 14-17, 2003, included several activities: the Clothesline Project, a self-defense class and the annual event known as Take Back the Night.

"I feel it's my responsibility because women are out there who have been through this," says Brittany Smith, one of the volunteers who helped with the Clothesline Project, which began Monday and lasted for three days. "I feel it's important that we support the education of sexual awareness," she continues. The project consists of a number of T-shirts hanging on a clothesline with vivid messages such as, "You can batter my body but you can't touch my spirit." These shirts were created by survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault and family members and friends of victims, and several were designed by MTSU students.

A Rape Aggression Prevention (R.A.P.) class was held on that Tuesday night. This was the first year for the class to be a part of the week's events. A certified martial arts instructor demonstrated to 36 women who signed up for the class how to better protect themselves from violent attacks.

For the past 10 years, Take Back the Night has been included in Sexual Assault Awareness Week at MTSU. The "night," which is a metaphor for the "fear, isolation, coercion and cruelty" experienced by many women, began on April 16 at the JUB with a 5K Walk/Run. Proceeds from the event go to the domestic violence program in Rutherford County. Following the 5K was a march and rally on The KUC Knoll, ending with a candlelight vigil to remember the victims.

CHEATING On campus

MTSU campus affected by the crime of academic dishonesty

by Sarah Crotzer

Like all other colleges, universities and even high schools, MTSU is affected by the crime of academic dishonesty, otherwise known as cheating. No doubt every student has sat through more than one class on the first day of school during which the professor stresses the problems and consequences of plagiarism. It may be that you simply tuned out the lecture, telling yourself that you would never do such a thing, and neither would your friends. Is that really true? According to the website of the Center for Academic Integrity (www.academicintegrity.org), "On most campuses, over 75% of students admit to some cheating. In a 1999 survey of 2,100 students on 21 campuses across the country, about one-third of the participating students admitted to serious test cheating and half admitted to one or more instances of serious cheating on written assignments." That research may seem startling, but not as much as how few cases are actually resolved.

Academic misconduct, or cheating, comes in many forms. The most well known is plagiarism, but others include lying, fabricating and aiding another person to cheat. Technology has also made it easier to cheat. Another piece of research from the Center for Academic Integrity notes that Internet plagiarism is on the rise. "Most students have concluded that 'cut and paste' plagiarism—using a sentence or two (or more) from different sources on the Internet and weaving this information together into a paper without citation—is not a serious issue."

According to statistics from Dr. John Dickerson, Assistant Dean of Judicial Affairs, there were only 19 referrals of academic misconduct from the beginning of Summer 2000 to the end of Spring 2001, rising to 64 in Summer 2001 to Spring 2002 and 90 in Summer 2002 to Spring 2003. Dickerson feels this is largely due to an increased recognition of the issue amongst faculty, a goal he has aspired to since he first took the job.

"One of my main goals was to make sure the policy was known, and enforced appropriately, so I took measures," he says.

Dickerson continues to do so by implementing new avenues of information. In August 2003, a lengthy academic integrity section was added to the MTSU website, encompassing famous quotes, research from the Center for Academic Integrity and full descriptions and policies regarding academic misconduct. He also speaks to every University1010 class instructor, as well as directly addressing some of his or her classes. However, along with his desire to inform and educate, Dickerson plays another role. Along with the deans of the respective colleges, he investigates every report of cheating and issues the appropriate action. The consequences can range from a written reprimand to academic probation to expulsion. Despite increased student awareness of both the crime and its possible outcomes, Dickerson believes that many cases still go unreported.

The Internet is a wonderful technological advancement. Information that used to take hours to find can now be accessed with the click of a mouse, and messages can be sent from one side of the world to the other in a matter of minutes. However, every new advancement has inevitable problems, and the Internet is no exception.

One of the most common complaints regarding the Internet today is about the growing amount of spam, or junk e-mail messages, that people are receiving. A common occurrence when checking e-mail is to find ten new messages, seven of which are from various advertisers. These advertisers, or spammers as they are commonly called, try to sell everything from the latest digital camera to weekend getaways though e-mail. If it seems that spam is becoming more and more common, that's because it is, and no one has figured out how to stop it.

Not even college students who use a university issued e-mail account can avoid receiving spam altogether. However, there is some good news for MTSU students who are tired of these annoying little e-mail ads that just appear in their inbox day after day. The university has recently purchased a new spam protection service for the university computer system. According to Jerry Gentry, Vice President of Information and Technology, 70 percent of the e-mail that comes on to campus is considered spam. This new system is estimated to eliminate 90 percent of the spam that enters the school computer system. "Nothing perfect, but it has improved," says Gentry. On the other hand, Gentry didn't seem optimistic when asked if the problem of spam would go away anytime soon: "As long as these people are making money the amount of spam will just continue to grow."

So how big of a problem is spam in campus e-mail here at MTSU? Randi Cornwell, who checks her e-mail daily, says, "Of course no one enjoys sorting through junk mail just to get to the important messages." The public relations major continues, "In comparison to some other e-mail accounts, the amount of spam I receive from my campus mailbox is minute." A student who checks his or her e-mail sporadically may have a different opinion. At any rate, it seems like spam is here to stay for the time being, so people might as well accept it as an unfortunate side effect of the Internet boom and move on.

TRASH

behind freshman dorms

by Julie Jenkins

It has become an all too common sight to see trash on the ground around the freshmen dorms. On any given day, walking behind Corlew and Cummings Halls it is easy to see pizza boxes, cups, coke bottles and numerous other discarded items scattered on the ground outside these building. What is the cause of this eye sore? Are the residents in these dorms so lazy that they would throw their garbage out of the windows instead of carrying it to the dumpster, or is there another cause for the accumulation of trash in this area? Are the freshman on campus so void of school pride that they would litter and make the campus look like a dump site?

The answers to these questions seem to be largely a matter of opinion. Some say it is a problem that needs to be fixed. While others feel it is a minor issue that has been blown out of proportion. When asked for her opinion on the issue, the Director of Housing Sarah Sudak said, "Don't get me wrong, some of the residents are throwing trash out of windows, and we do take appropriate action when we can identify those students." These actions include fining residents on certain floors or whole sides of the building to discourage further littering. Sudak also pointed out, that a large portion of the trash that ends up behind the freshman dorms is blown there, from other areas of campus. She added, "This has been happening since those buildings were built."

That may be the case, however, others feel that the problem has gotten worse recently. Also, something needs to be done about this continuing problem because it marrs the beauty of the campus. The solution of finding out who is littering may never be found, but it seems this issue could be resolved if everyone would do one simple thing. Throw trash in the trashcan instead out window or on the ground.

reduction in hours saving

At one point or another during our college career we have all wished that we could graduate sooner. Next fall that wish will become a reality for MTSU students pursuing an undergraduate degree. Beginning in 2004, the number of hours required to earn an undergraduate degree will be reduced from 132 hours to 120 hours for most degree programs, although the number of hours may very slightly in some colleges such as engineering and education.

How did this change come about? The Tennessee Board of Regents first introduced the recommendation for the reduction last year in a report entitled "Defining Our Future." According to Dr. Diane Miller, Interim Vice Provost of Academic Affairs, one of the main objectives of the reduction is to mainstream the degree programs at all of the schools within the board. "The concern was not so much about the loss of money but about having to cut classes that the departments felt were very important to prepare students for careers in their chosen fields," she said, having been asked if the university was concerned about losing money as a result of the changes. All faculty were given the chance to express any concerns they had about the changes both by phone and in writing, and those concerns were taken into consideration by the board.

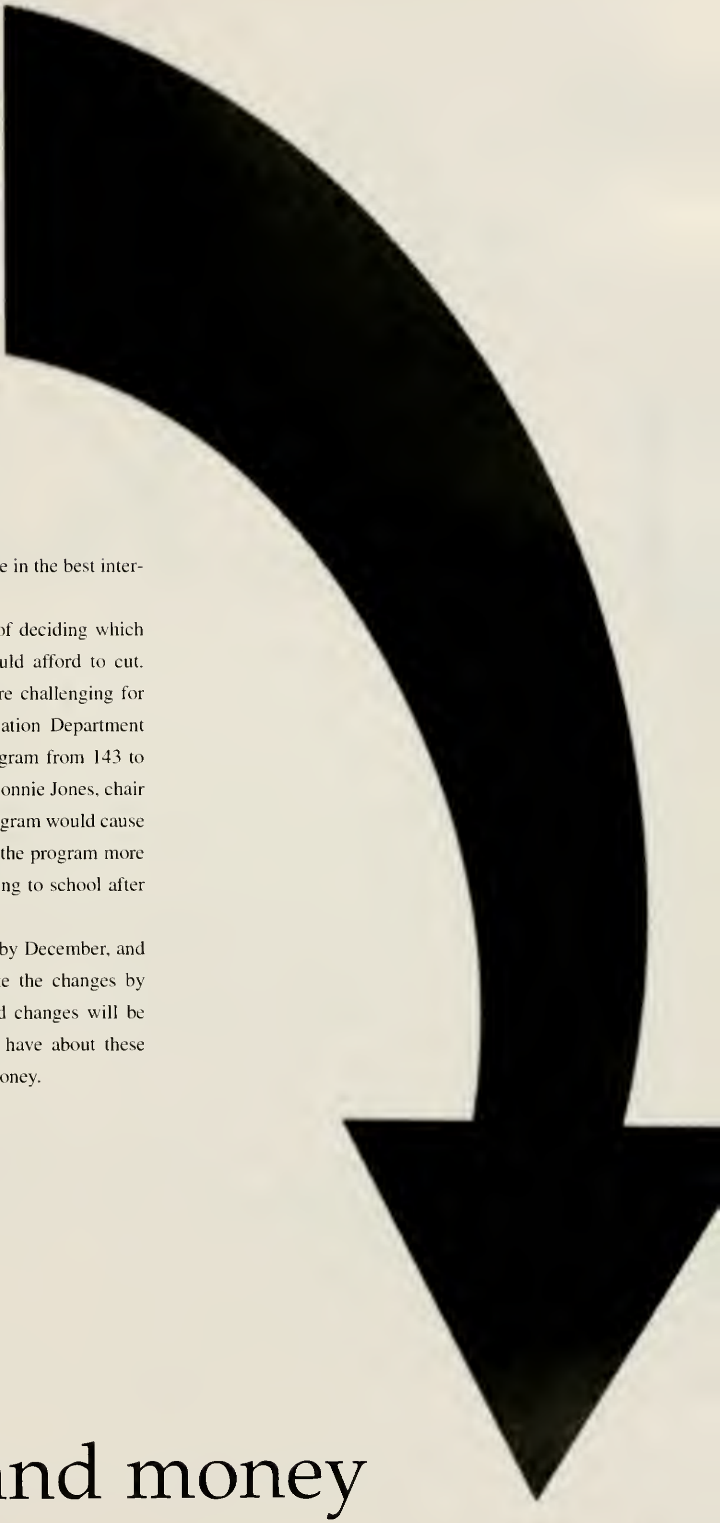
ASED hours

raphic by Matt Bogdon



Ultimately, it was decided that a reduction in hours would be in the best interest of the university and its students.

The departments were left with the very difficult task of deciding which courses were the most valuable and which ones they could afford to cut. While this was difficult for all departments, it proved more challenging for some than for others. The Elementary and Special Education Department faced a particularly challenging task of reducing their program from 143 to 120 hours. "We now have a very basic program," says Dr. Connie Jones, chair of the department. When asked if she felt having a basic program would cause a loss of students a she replied, "No, because it with make the program more appealing to transfer students and students who are returning to school after being out in the work force for a few years."

The TBR is expected to approve the reduction in hours by December, and the Tennessee Higher Education Commission will finalize the changes by January 2004. If all goes according to plan, the approved changes will be implemented in the 2004. Despite the reservations some have about these changes, they will definitely save students both time and money.

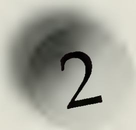
Students hit the JACKPOT

"Over 85 percent of [MTSU] incoming freshman class will receive funding."



- David Hutton
Director of Financial Aid

by Tabitha Taylor

All students love to hear that one little “S” word ... scholarship! So what is all the fuss about the new Hope Lottery Scholarship?

The scholarship is going to benefit many students here at MTSU. All entering freshmen (class of 2004) and sophomores (class of 2003) will be eligible for this new, rewarding scholarship, which is worth $3,000 each year.

"Over 85 percent of our incoming freshman class will receive funding. MTSU students expect to receive over $23 million after it is fully implemented." These lottery tickets are expected to go on sale beginning in the spring of 2004," explains David Hutton, Director of Financial Aid.

Most students would say, "What's the catch?" The great thing about the scholarship is that there really is no catch. "The key to students receiving the lottery is to maintain the required GPA and annual completion of the FAFSA form," says Hutton. The recipients are not chosen on a need basis, but rather by number of credits earned and by their GPA. The only requirements are that the student maintains a 2.75 GPA and have already maintained at least 24 credit hours. It may sound easy enough, but only 40 percent of students accomplish this. Also, a student's FAFSA form must be filled out and turned back in by the deadline date, which is May 1st. These FAFSA forms can be picked up in the financial aid office or they can be found on the website, www.fafsa.ed.gov.

Dr. Bob Glenn vice president for Student Affairs explained, "If they meet these guidelines and maintain their grades, it could mean a minimum of $9,000 during their college career. No matter how you feel about the lottery, students in Tennessee and their families can be the winners in the long run if they plan ahead and put forth the effort."

Any student that is eligible for the scholarship must be aware that after they receive the scholarship after completing their first 24 hours, the required GPA average goes up to a 3.0. And for those students that are wondering if summer credits apply, they do!

"Now is the time for freshmen to begin thinking about their financial aid package for the coming year," Glenn said. "Earning good grades becomes a very important task, because it means money in the bank. After their freshman year, students have to complete a minimum of 24 hours each year and maintain a GPA of 3.0 or higher."

Also, the students that apply for this scholarship must note that the scholarship requires that the student keep eligibility continuously. If the student ever becomes ineligible for any scholarship, they will not be able to regain eligibility.

Because this scholarship benefits only Tennessee students, it is beneficial to to those students that are transferring from out of state universities to universities here in Tennessee. Freshman transfer student Samantha Hill explains, "transferring from the University of Mississippi to MTSU was a great advantage due to the new Tennessee Hope Lottery scholarship. Now that I have the opportunity to attend a university here in my home state, I am happy to have the chance to win this new scholarship."

The scholarship is helpful to any student that has the chance to apply for it because it will help pay for the cost of tuition, books, and other fees. "This scholarship is not only beneficial to me, but it is also helpful to my parents," explains Vickie Tipps, "they are helping pay for me and my brother to go to college here at MTSU and every little bit helps!"

Unfortunately, this scholarship does not affect the students that graduated in high school in 2002 or earlier. However, for those 2003 classes and later, there is hope; hope from the Hope Lottery Scholarship. "This is going to be the best thing that has happened to Tennessee students since the start of the Pell grant," says Hutton.

A after appearing on the second season of the nation's adored reality show, "American Idol,"the world is at Meosha Denton's fingertips. Her eyes are now set on achieving her lifelong goal of becoming a professional singer.

Denton, a 21-year-old chemistry major, began her adventure to the "American Idol" semi-finals by sleeping in her car overnight to attend the Nashville auditions.

Out of 3000 Nashville hopefuls, Denton won a spot in the group of 30 who went to Hollywood after braving the third appearance in front of the three judges Paula Abdul, Randy Jackson and Simon Cowell.

"It happened all at once," remembers Denton. "I was in school one day and the next thing I knew I was out in Hollywood."

Singing "I Turn to You" by Christina Aguilera in the last Nashville audition clinched her spot as one of 234, out of 70,000 people who auditioned nationwide, to be jetted away to Hollywood.

Denton had been preparing for an opportunity like this since she began singing at age 3. She sang and danced in the show choir at Overton High School, in Memphis, Tenn. She also had experience performing in several talent shows, taking voice lessons starting at age 13 and singing in her church choir. Even with this experience, she admitted that performing a live rendition of the Leann Rimes version of "How Do I Live Without You" was nerve-racking. She said forty million people watched from their homes as she sang in a studio with only video cameras and the judges in front of her.

"I just prayed about it a lot and did the best I could do," Denton explains, adding that she wasn't satisfied with her performance because she was so nervous. She said it helped to have the support of her aunt and grandmother.

Although stressful, Denton said that her "American Idol" experience was priceless. During her two-week stay in Hollywood, Denton learned what it would be like to become a professional singer.

"[I experienced] what it would be like to wake up early in the morning and be gone all day because you're in the studio and not get any free time because you have to be at certain places at certain times," says the young artist.

Although pleased with reaching her goal of making the top 32, Denton said she was sad to leave her new friends after finding out that she did not make a spot as one of the top 12 finalists.

Denton flew home to Tennessee and was subsequently awarded the key to the city of Memphis for her accomplishments.

Being one of the 32 semi-finalists makes Denton ineligible to try out for future seasons, the coming year is packed with plans to fulfill her dreams. In late 2003 or 2004, she plans to record a demo and submit it to record labels in hopes of being signed with a label in the near future.

"I'm just hoping that my dreams will come true, and I will become a professional singer," says Denton. "That is what I've always wanted to do since I was a little girl."

kyle

by Jennifer Neas

When junior Kyle Lollis moved back to the Middle Tennessee area, he had no idea the effect it would have on his life and career choices. Lollis never thought he would be the type to have a hand in the music industry, but that is exactly what happened after he moved back from his time at out-of-state colleges.

Lollis and his family had lived in the Franklin area since 1995, but after graduating from Franklin High School in 1998 he decided to go out-of-state to continue his education and gain more job opportunities.

He moved to Clemson University and then to a community college in Charleston, taking classes for a semester at each college. He partied and surfed a lot, leaving his grades much to be desired.

After deciding to get serious about his college education, he moved home to attend MTSU in the fall 2000. Since then, he has declared his major in Electronic Media Communication, while making contacts in various fields of entertainment.

Lollis started by singing in his father's church. When someone in the congregation heard him they passed his number "through the grapevine." Which ultimately landed in country music singer Billy Ray Cyrus's lap. While out to eat one night in July 2002, Cyrus came up to Lollis's table and said he had heard good things about his singing. This gave Lollis the opportunity to sing with Cyrus at shows in Nashville and Franklin.

But after getting his foot in the door with the music industry, Lollis's opportunities expanded and he got a telephone call from a guy wanting to put a band together. The group was to consist of four men that had the musical style of Rascal Flatts. Lollis would play guitar and sing tenor for the group.

The group was on the verge of being the first group to sign with a record company called Universal South. When that break did not follow through, the members chose to go with RCA. However, before they went to sign, the group fired their lead singer. When they could not find a replacement, they decided to take a year off. After the hiatus, the group recorded a demo. Nonetheless, at one of the group's meetings, three of the four members said that they wanted to quit the band to go out on their own.

Lollis, being one of the three members that wanted to quit, describes his feelings as "wanting to branch out on his own without a group."

He has since then become more focused on his production of videos and working with the television industry. He currently owns his own production company, with a studio in his house, called Kyle Lollis Media. His future goal is to one day own a production company where he can create video packages and short independent films.

Willie Sims Jr. is the big man on campus, literally. Well-known around campus and the Middle Tennessee area for his alias Big Fella, he is a man who plans to use his charismatic charm to take him places. The entrepreneur manages to be fun and non-threatening while remaining controversial, which makes him a highly likable local star.

At the age of 13, Big Fella began rapping in his hometown of Detroit, Mich., where he says he battled local rap stars, including Eminem. He attended Central Michigan University, but his freshman year was filled with controversy. Big Fella heard that MTSU had a good mass communications program and decided Middle Tennessee is where he belongs.

Big Fella's philosophy about school may seem unconventional to others, but it makes perfect sense to him. "School just trains you how to answer to someone else. You get a little piece of paper that says you put up with school for four years, now you can put up with someone else's stuff." Big Fella believes it is better to have your own goals. "School is my plan F--if A-B-C-D-E don't work, I can always return to F."

Big Fella is mostly known for his MTSU cooking show titled "Cookin' Wit Big Fella: the Hustlin' Gourmet," on which he uses a distinctive cooking style while preparing self-titled foods. As well as releasing his self-published cookbook, he has also published the "Big Fella Newsletta," in which he discusses events around MTSU.

Big Fella, along with two of his friends, started an independent record label called CEO Entertainment. Last year Big Fella put out a Rap/R&B album and was able to sell it in most music stores. The album titled "Broke ... But Still Living," has sold 6,000 copies to date, which is an incredible feat for a local artist with no distribution. The rapper says his next album will be a compilation for an independent movie titled "Club Play." "It has way better production than our first album, it is going to be a lot better," he says.

Big Fella has a host of other projects lined up that are almost as big as his stature. Ideas include releasing his cooking show on DVD, working on an upcoming documentary about down south rap, going into real estate and even owning an ice cream truck. "The ice cream truck is going to be a good one," he smiles.

Big Fella, like his specialty 'Mama's Biscuit,' is definitely a man on the rise. He may have plans for A-F, but he has set enough personal goals for A-Z.

Claire Morris accomplished the fear of having a television segment air on a nationally syndicated station.

Few undergrads have the privilege of having a story aired on a nationally syndicated television station; Claire Morris is an exception.

During the summer of 2002, a television segment that she had written and produced was aired on CNN. She is the first student here to succeed in such a feat. "My story is important to me because I put MTSU on the map and in the ranks with all of the Ivy League or elite schools," said Morris.

Morris's success can be contributed to many factors, especially the help of college of mass communications. Speaking of her most influential professor, she said, "Professor Pondillo was the one who gave the direction as to the composition of the story. He gave me examples and showed me the way." Pondillo is the one who she said encouraged her to create the segment, yet she admits that even he doubted that she would pursue the idea.

At the end of April, after a month and a half of unrelenting work and determination, she submitted the story to CNN. Her segment, which portrayed a college undergrad with financial problems, aired July 17, 2002.

This event has etched Morris's name in school history. "I believe the story was such a success because it was well done, and it was a personal story about a girl who needed a job and needed to pay the bills. People can relate to being a college student and not having money, and those are the kind of stories that make the news," she explains.

Morris has evolved from a striving theatre major to a successful mass communication major. Still, she refuses to let her success dominate her life. "As far as peers go, my family was really excited and proud of me, but no one outside of them and my close friends knew. And to this day, some of them still don't. I don't go around telling everyone because it is not what I define myself on," she said.

Morris is destined to do great things in the world of entertainment. "This is just the beginning," she said. With her ambition and determination, Claire Morris is guaranteed to soar to success.

Senior Chad Humbert has had an opportunity that many students desire but never have the opportunity to fulfill - interviewing recording artists. Humbert has his own show in WMTS, MTSU's student-run radio station. The show, "Humbilya's Groove" has given him the opportunity to interview some of the musicians whose music he and others play.

Humbert contacts the record label to set up the interview. Sometimes the interview is conducted over the phone, or the interview can only last a certain length of time. However, most of Humbert's interviews take place at the venue, usually in Nashville or somewhere else local, where the artist is performing. Due to busy schedules, the interview is during the sound check before the concert.

Among those Humbert has interviewed have been Maroon 5, Coldplay, Sister Hazel and Sixpence None the Richer. Humbert has been working at the campus radio station for two years and still does interviews on occasion. Humbert's favorite types of interview are those that have more of a relaxed atmosphere, when the artists are "laid-back" and "accessible." Sixpence None the Richer and Maroon 5 are two bands that Humbert enjoyed meeting because they were easy-going.

One thing that Humbert has learned through this exposure to the music business is that managers can be "strict about time" when it comes to the artists they represent, and labels won't grant an interview with an artist or band to just anyone. With the experience at the radio station, Humbert would like to not only continue to work at a radio station once he has graduated, but he also wants to branch out into concert promotions and possibly pursue a job as a music director.

Social work major Alesha Gresham overcomes illness and wants to help others.

With a promising career as a social worker in front of her, things are looking good for MTSU student Alesha Gresham. She is married, active in school clubs and has a very nice GPA to boot. Add this to a December graduation, and it's no wonder she's happy.

However, things were not always this good for Gresham, who has had more than her fair share of hardships over her life. At age 12, she suffered from the break-up of her family and was separated from her mother, sister and three brothers. Gresham was then sent to live with her aunt and uncle, who had never raised a child before.

"It was a learning experience for all three of us," says Gresham with a small laugh, even though the situation didn't always elicit such a response. "It made me angry for a while," she adds, "but it gave me a different perspective."

Tragedy stuck her again when she was a freshman in high school. "I just woke up and the whole left side of me was numb, it was an all of a sudden thing," says Gresham. After a trip to the doctor, an X-ray showed a mass on her heart. Doctors at first believed the tumor to be cancerous, but to everyone's relief the second and third medical opinions proved the tumor benign.

What impressed her the most during her illness was how supportive her community was. "So many people came together," Gresham states.

Even with her personal life in chaos, Gresham still stayed on top of her school work. She graduated high school with honors, and was given a Co-Op award for students who work and go to school and a Students and Teachers for Academic Recognition Award for academic excellence. She was also chosen to be one of only 20 students across her county to participate in North Jackson Leadership, a program to help youth develop their leadership skills.

Once in college, Gresham was awarded the Archie Hartwell-Nash scholarship for students who work at least 20 hours a week and attend school full time. She also received a scholarship from the Phi Alpha National Honor Society and the Marion Clark scholarship for achievement in social work. Gresham also served as the vice president of the campus social work forum as well as president of the Phi Alpha social work honors society.

Because of what she has gone through, Gresham pursued a career in social work. "I felt like I had gone through those things for a reason," she claims. She wants to offer people the resources and opportunities to get through things like she has. "I feel my experiences will help," she says.

After graduation, Gresham hopes to attend the Metro Police Academy for training as possibly a probation officer or other type of social worker. She is also considering graduate school. "After that," she says, "who knows!"

penny

by Deanna Bauer

Penny Antonova, a 22-year-old business student, is very thankful for the opportunities she has living in America. However, she has not forgotten the friends, lifestyle and culture she left behind in Bulgaria.

In the spring of 1998, Penny, her parents and her younger brother received their golden ticket in the mail declaring they won the Diversity Visa Lottery, also known as the Green Card Lottery. Through this lottery, the U.S. Department of State issues 50,000 coveted permanent resident visas annually to people in countries where fewer than 50,000 natives have immigrated to the United States over the past five years.

In November 1999, the Antonovas left their fourth-floor apartment in Bulgaria's bustling capital, Sofia, and settled in Old Hickory, Tenn., where they started a new life as a modern immigrant family.

Penny's real name is Penka. "In Bulgaria, everybody has a nickname," she explains.

Just before her family left Bulgaria, Penny graduated from a high school for foreign languages where she studied German. "I used to interpret for Germans in Bulgaria for meetings and conferences," she says.

Penny would have never had the chance to study German, or English, if it wasn't for the dramatic change in government that occurred in Bulgaria when Penny was 10-years-old. "Up until 1990, Bulgaria was a Communist country," states Penny with a serious look in her usually smiling eyes. "It was pretty much stuck in the past." Under Communist rule, every student had to learn Russian.

"After 1990, everything changed," Penny recalls. Western culture infiltrated Bulgaria and "the doors were open." Bulgaria is becoming more like Western Europe. "You can get everything you want there," she professes.

Penny enjoys visiting her home country, but she doesn't want to live there. After graduation, she wants to work for a company where she can travel between Europe and the United States. "Eventually, I want to own my own company importing and exporting goods," she says.

Like many students, Penny loves going out with friends, works 30 hours per week and commutes to campus. She feels great respect for America and is grateful for the opportunities to attend college and buy her own car, things many young Bulgarians are unable to do. At the same time, she is very patriotic about her native country. "I get pretty excited when I see the Bulgarian flag, or hear the name Bulgaria," Penny grins, smiling as if she was speaking about an old friend.

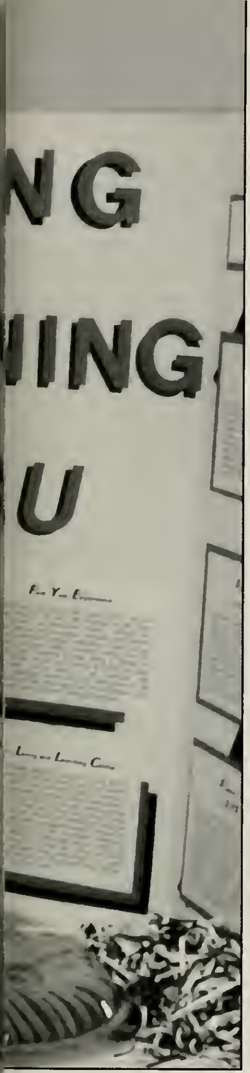
ACADEMIC SUPPORT CENTER

by Jenny Arnett



Many students start down the college path without a clue of what they want to be. The Academic Support Center, located in Room 102 of Peck Hall, has academic advisers and counselors to help steer them through the pitfalls and perils of academia. The Academic Support Center offers advice, support and counseling for students with an undeclared major. Although the Academic Support Center cannot make the decision for students, the advisers and counselors will sit and talk with them and help narrow their conclusion down to a particular department.

Unlike most students, undeclared majors do not have an assigned adviser. The advisers at the Academic Support Center are the advisers for all undeclared majors as well as students who are enrolled in remedial studies. Barbara Hensley, Horace Stogner, Debbie Carroll, Carla Hatfield, Mark Templeton, Terri Tharp, Lewis Gray and Darryl Greeley are there to offer support and guidance for the lost and befuddled.

If a student has already declared a major and needs more intensive help with a career decision, Joe Tucibate in Room 329 of the Keathley University Center, is available for in-depth counseling.

Although the Academic Support Center does not offer enhanced career testing, the staff is looking at new software that is designed to help the student pick a career that will please him or her. The software offers critical elements that help the student by asking questions about academic aptitude, career interests and future lifestyles. The Academic Support Center hopes to have this software by the end of the year.

Even though students have roughly two years to declare a major, for many it is still scary to take a leap into the unknown. It is fine to take time soul searching for the perfect career. Many people spend the first several years at college sampling everything, taking a class here and there to find out what they like. However, this is time consuming and keeps your graduation date out of reach.

So if a student feels dazed and confused or just needs a little nudge, stop by the Academic Support Center and let the advisers and counselors working there help find the right path.

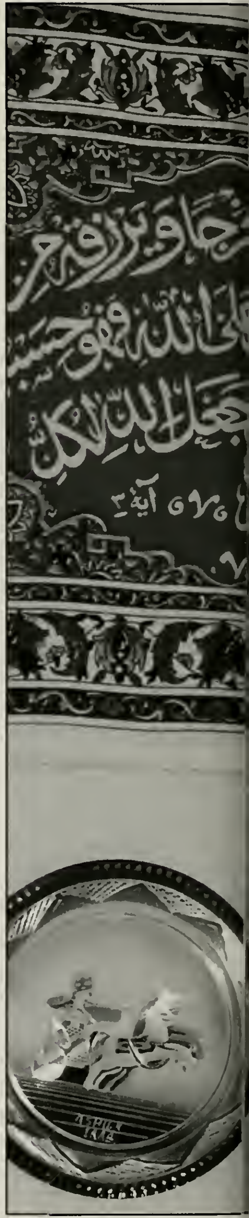
"Iraqi Freedom" hits close to home

Dr. Karim Salman

by Linda G. Selby



The war in Iraq has created the need for people to stop stereotyping each other and begin an age of enlightenment, Dr. Karim Salman proclaims. Salman, an Iraqi national and a professor in the engineering technology and industrial studies department, has been living in the United States for approximately eight years.

"Iraqi Freedom," which began in the fall of 2002, was more than disturbing for Dr. Salman as he watched televised reports of his former homeland being bombed for days on end. He is one member from a family of 11. Two siblings live in the United States, and three other members of his family live in Iraq. The remainder are scattered over five continents.

The world is so full of lack of understanding," he says. "We must, as a people, stop stereotyping and begin an era of enlightment."

He has had a chance to speak to all of his family, and all have survived the war without incident. His mother still lives in Iraq, and he speaks with her on a regular basis. She says she dreams of seeing her son again. She is quite elderly and has cancer. "I pray that stability can be in place soon," says the professor.

Dr. Salman cannot go to Iraq because it is too dangerous for him as he was a target of the Saddam regime because he left the nation. He is hoping to return to Iraq as soon as the situation calms down. His wife and daughter are planning to spend winter break with his family. "As they are U.S. citizens, they should be safe," he explains. "I personally do not know who to trust and who not to."

"I feel that the people of Iraq hated Saddam, but they hate the occupation by the U. S. even more," says Salman. "Can you imagine the desert heat with no electricity? The poverty is much worse than during the days of Saddam. There is little, if any, police protection. Imagine a world with no law and order. People can commit murder and looting with no consequences. I feel that nothing is being done to correct the problems of Saddam. My homeland is in a true state of emergency. Conditions could not be worse."

His entire family holds master's or Ph.D. degrees; one brother is a heart surgeon and another is a general surgeon in Australia. Several of Salman's family left Iraq due to their father's poor relationship with Saddam.

Recently, his brother-in-law was imprisoned for helping his daughter escape from Iraq. He is an ear, nose and throat specialist who once treated Saddam and his family. He is married to Salman's oldest sister, an OB-GYN who currently is having to perform C-sections without the benefit of anesthesia due to sanctions imposed by the U.S.

"Life is good in the USA. Life used to be good in Iraq," recalls Salman. "I well-remember wonderful times in my homeland. Saddam was bad, but, after the Gulf War, life took an unbearable turn. The sanctions caused a genocide of my people. Americans are told what the media chooses to tell. I feel the average U.S. citizen has no idea of the atrocities committed against the Iraqi population. They have no idea about the starvation, lack of medicine, lack of water or the rare electricity. Saddam can be blamed, but not solely. The sanctions share in the destruction of Iraq."

Salman and his family are Sunni Muslims. His wife recently traveled to the Middle East and was amazed by the lack of crime and the fact that people did not even bother to lock their doors at night. "We are schooled from an early age not to harm another living creature," he says. "The foundation of our religion is peace and love of one's neighbors."

Engineering Technology and Industrial Studies

"When I reflect on my life in Engineering and Engineering Technology, what remains closet to my heart is the time I have spent teaching. Even after enjoying a successful career in other areas, I still felt compelled to teach. Yet what I recall most of all about teaching extends beyond the classroom. Teaching students through innovative, multidimensional, hands-on projects, I believe, is the key to shaping the minds of future engineers. The "real-world" experience of creating a product from start to finish simultaneously provides a shocking yet rewarding experience that will ultimately give recent graduates an edge in the profession. Despite the thrill of taking home several wins in both the solar bike and moon buggy national competitions, I still think the most fulfilling reward of all is the confidence, knowledge and enthusiasm that the students take home with them."

Chemistry

"I cannot remember a time when I did not want to be a teacher. My brother and sister were my first pupils. Our playroom had a desk and a small chalkboard; together we mastered reading and simple arithmetic. In college, my professors asked me to serve as a teaching assistant for chemistry labs. The experience was thoroughly enjoyable, paid a modest amount and, although I didn't realize it until later, helped me to learn as well. It turns out that you really cannot teach a subject unless you know it well, so I had to learn my material well to act as a teaching assistant. It also turns out that, at least for chemistry, a teacher must love the subject as well. Fortunately, I do. It is a great joy to do the thing you love."

"During my childhood, I dreamed of becoming a teacher, but I decided that working in corporate America would be better. It was based on the encouragement of my late husband, Ralph, that I decided to obtain teacher licensure. Shortly after beginning my studies in education, I realized that the positive impact that I could have on young peoples' lives far exceeded any amount of money or power that I could earn in the corporate world. We all must open the doors of discovery and opportunity. As a teacher, I have the opportunity to equip students to walk through these doors."

"I believe in following your passions in life. Teaching is one of my greatest passions. I did not plan on being a teacher; it was the farthest thing from my mind since I had a terrible fear of public speaking from the time I was in grade school until I was in graduate school. But I was assigned to teach two lecture classes during the first year of my doctoral program, and I found that I loved being in the classroom. After completing my Ph.D., I continued to teach, and my passion for teaching continues to grow each year. I love interacting with students and creatively engaging them in the learning process. I want to make a difference in my students' lives. I want to encourage them to overcome obstacles and discover their own passions in life."

Concrete Industry Management

by Sarah Palmer

When you hear the word concrete, what comes to mind? Cold, gray, construction perhaps? Not very interesting. However, for more and more students at MTSU, this word holds bright possibilities for their future with the concrete industry management (CIM) program.

It all started in 1994 when representatives from the concrete industry approached MTSU with an interesting proposition. The industry needed more people with knowledge in concrete management and business and wanted the college to provide them. The representatives came up with the concrete industry management program which offers students a four-year bachelor of science degree in concrete industry management. Currently, it is the only program of its kind in the country.

The CIM program, which began with only two students in 1996, is becoming a popular one here at MTSU. According to Debbie Londre, the CIM marketing and recruitment coordinator, the program now has approximately 200 students.

One of the main attractions of the program is the availability of jobs upon graduation. The concrete industry management program works with the industry to place a majority of its students. Students even have the opportunity to go into management positions. "They can go into any type of concrete job," says Londre.

This fact is one of the things that drew freshman Brad Bruckel to MTSU and the CIM program. "I like it that the actual businesses come to recruit the students," he explains. While most students in the CIM program come to MTSU and later switch majors, Bruckel came specifically for the concrete program. "I was looking for a program with a strong business background with good job opportunities after graduation," he says.

Since the concrete industry management program has grown so much in the few short years it's been at MTSU, program staff members are hopeful for the future. The program is starting to attract students from across the nation such as Bruckel, who is from Mississippi. "We're pretty unique in the fact that we're in the academic common market," says Londre, which makes the CIM program a good financial choice for the present as well as the future.

Even though the CIM program has only been around for a few years, things are moving ahead quickly. Leaders in the concrete industry will continue to play a large part in deciding the curriculum for students. Londre even describes herself as working "one-third for MTSU, one-third for the students and one-third for the industry." Progress is being made in a concrete contracting concentration as well as an executive master's degree.

This is all good news for Bruckel, who is looking forward to his future career in the concrete industry. "My dream job," he says, " is working in sales and marketing for an international company."

Student Achievement

by Leah Van Hoozer

Students receive various awards on academic achievements.

No one is free from experiencing hardships. It is times like these that test a person's courage and will. Many come through adversities and are able to learn vital life lessons that change their attitudes and the way they live their lives. One individual who overcame several barriers to completing her college degree while maintaining a positive approach is Linda Feagans, the student honored with the Achievement Award at the University Awards Ceremony last April.

According to the program from the awards ceremony, the student granted this award demonstrates perseverance amidst obstacles. Feagans was chosen as the recipient because of all the struggles she encountered while completing the requirements for her degree. The first was a car wreck that kept her out of college for a year. Soon after that, Feagans put her college career on hold while her husband completed his degree, and they also started a family. But she was yet to encounter the greatest difficulty: being diagnosed with a serious illness.

Legionnaires' disease was a "traumatic experience" that dramatically altered her way of life. Feagans was one of 69 people diagnosed with the disease and one of only four that survived. Having side effects such as the lost of most of her long-term memory, she faced quite a challenge. However, she was able to relearn things through the help of her family.

Linda Feagans

Knowing that "no one needs to be left out," Feagans restarted her college career, this time focusing on helping other students. She organized study groups and played an active part in various clubs and organizations on campus.

Feagans demonstrated her belief that "the best thing anybody can do for their college career is to get involved. You don't just go to class." After all she has been through, Feagans overcame the hardships in her life and has inspired many with her story.

"I don't think I would be the same person I am today if I hadn't gone through it," she says.

Eric Fundt

When students have passion and a drive for their field of study, it becomes evident. Other factors can contribute to the desire and ability a child has, but sometimes this passion does not develop until all these various components come together and act as a catalyst in new pursuits.

Eric Freundt, the recipient of the President's Award, has had a similar experience. Although he says his parents supported his inquisitiveness, he admits, "I didn't really become serious about learning until late in high school."

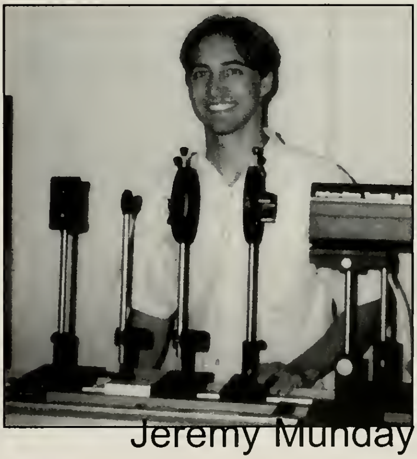
It was during high school that his interest in science was sparked. Freundt notes being exposed to different sciences and credits his high school science teacher for helping him learn. "[My teacher] changed the way I thought about the world around us," he remembers. "That was a big turning point." With this fresh approach, Freundt embarked on his college career here at MTSU and encountered extraordinary opportunities that would expand these newly discovered interests.

Freundt gained valuable experience in biological research during his involvement in undergraduate research projects through the University Honors College. Being a part of these research experiments, and the recognition he received, offered the knowledge and skills that would help to lead towards a successful career.

"The recognition I received during my studies at MTSU was quite encouraging and felt more like an expression of support from my mentors and peers," states Freundt. All of Freundt's work in class and research granted him the honor of the President's Award at the University Award Ceremony on April 10, 2003.

After completing his degree, Freundt is now attending Oxford University and eventually plans to teach, but he is currently focused on doing research.

Freundt not only has passion for his scientific studies but passion for helping others through his work. "Although I may never make a ground breaking discovery that will cure a horrible disease," he says, "I do believe that my work will eventually lead to a higher quality of life for those suffering from illness."



Jeremy Munday

At the University Awards Ceremony, Jeremy Munday received the Provost Award. In order to be nominated for this prestigious award, a student is selected from each college within the school and their name is submitted to a committee.

Munday was involved in undergraduate research, which provided him with several occasions to gain experience in the field of physics during his time at MTSU. Some of those included traveling to Marseilles, France to do research with the Research Experience for Undergraduates program and having publications appear in widely recognized magazines. Munday enjoyed this exposure to the scientific community.

"People seem to be interested in the work we've been doing, and I love talking to them about it," says Munday. "The most interesting projects will appeal to people across disciplines."

However, pursuing a degree in physics was not his first intention. Munday was originally involved with the recording industry. "It might sound like a strange combination, but physics and music are actually quite connected," he explains.

The experience and skills Munday obtained while working towards his degree in basic and applied sciences are still with him even after college. He wishes to acquire a Ph.D. in physics from Harvard University where he is presently studying. After finishing the graduate program there, Munday plans to go after his passion of "teaching and doing research," showing others how to use all the resources available in their academic pursuits.

Agribusiness

Students working MTSU farms

by Amy Taylor

The notion of agriculture as merely a simple way of life is a major misconception in American society. In order to prevent false interpretations about agricultural education, which has actually seen a decline in students entering the school, MTSU adopted the terms agribusiness and agriscience.

The name change occurred to promote the school's intentions to offer students the opportunity to study how agriculture affects everything that humans have come to rely on for natural resources. The school provides programs concentrating in the natural environment, animal science, food consumption, food safety, floriculture and land use, and environmental and industrial effects on groundwater. Dr. Harley Foutch, chairman of the Agribusiness/Agriscience (ABAS) department said that 1.5 percent of the United States population is involved in agricultural production.

ABAS offers course study in pre-forestry, which involves the usage of trees and the maintenance and beautification of national parks and what steps need to be taken to keep these sources available to the public. Also connected with ABAS is the pre-veterinary program in relationship with animal science. Another program offered in agriscience is turf management. This program enables those studying plant science a window of opportunity into the lucrative business of grounds maintenance. According to Foutch, it was only last year that students discovered how important grounds management is becoming. He adds, "Our turf management students had a huge opportunity last year in working with the Tennessee Titans Coliseum football field. We couldn't provide them with enough students, if that tells you how demanding that business is becoming."

In conjunction with the school of ABAS are a combined 12 judging teams and clubs. The school endeavors to develop what Foutch refers to as the "complete student" by offering hands on opportunities. ABAS students are actively involved with the MTSU dairy farm located in the Blackman community of Murfreesboro, the Angus/swine farm close to Woodbury and the on-campus equestrian facilities.

Considering the broad base of agribusiness and agriscience, the school has seen only an increase in the student enrollment due to its new reputation as such a broad program. From 1987 to 2000, the number of agribusiness and agriscience majors and minors has doubled. Students seem to be looking more to the program for a solid basis in science and business as it relates to the food industry, as well as a more informed approach to biotechnology and the effects of agricultural production on the economy.

New Planes for the Aerospace Department

by Sarah Palmer

Aerospace students have long complained about not being able to fly in their flight labs. Weather can often be unpredictable, but their planes were as well. However, at the beginning of the 2003 fall semester, all of that changed.

MTSU's aerospace program is one of the finest in the country. Dr. Paul Craig, chairman of the college's aerospace department, boasts that his program is one of the largest in the country and, up until 2003, was easily in the nation's top five. But, despite the large program, students were still flying planes that were 20-25 years old. The planes did not have new technology the students would encounter in the professional world, and students were often unable to fly because the planes kept breaking down. According to Craig, they were "just antiques."

Because of this, Sept. 4, 2003, was a cause for celebration. MTSU was able to purchase 25 brand new Diamond and Piper planes. Representatives from each of the four types of planes landed at the MTSU airport in front of the crowd, with such pilots as Dr. Craig, MTSU President Dr. Sidney McPhee and even the governor of Tennessee Governor Phil Bredesen.

MTSU now has the newest fleet of aircraft in the world, which is great for the aerospace program. Craig says that his program is now the very best in the country. Students will now have access to today's best technology, which will make them better prepared for their careers. "What we have now is young pilots on top technology," says Craig. "It's better preparation for the students."

In addition, the students will be receiving more flight time. Since the airplanes are new, parts will be easier to find when the planes break down, although that shouldn't happen for a while. Joe Tortorelli, a junior aerospace major, is enthusiastic about the new planes. He claims, "It will help because we have consistency with all the planes. They won't break down as much, so we'll have more flights in the air."

Not only is MTSU's aerospace program now a role model for other aerospace programs but also to schools in general all over the country. Surprisingly, not a single penny of the money spent to buy the planes came from taxpayers. Instead, the money came from the Tennessee School Bonding Authority. The state sold bonds to investors to raise the money, which MTSU will pay back when the bonds mature. This was especially pleasing to Gov. Bredesen. "You can still be the best in the country and not depend on the tax system," said Craig. "Ours is the most economical program in the U.S."

However, since the state is not paying for it, all of the money will end up being paid back by the aerospace students. This resulted in a significant increase in fees for flight training. "It was one of our biggest concerns," recalls Craig. "But there was no drop-off in interest or enrollment, it actually increased."

Randy Weiler of MTSU's News and Public Affairs office adds an interesting perspective on how the students actually purchased the planes themselves. "I think there will be a great sense of pride among them," he says. After all, how many college students can say they helped buy a plane?

New Executive Vice President and Provost

by Natasha Reddon

When asked what she hopes to achieve at Middle Tennessee State University, Dr. Kaylene Gebert, Executive Vice President and Provost, answered, "A more student-centered learning environment and stronger academic quality." Dr. Gebert is not a stranger to education. She began her education at Hanover College in her home state of Indiana. By 1966, she had graduated with a double major, baccalaureates in English, speech drama and a teacher certification. She continued her education at Cornell University, where she received a masters degree in theatre production. After deciding to pursue a doctorate at Indiana University, she received a Ph.D. in historical and contemporary communications in 1980.

Dr. Gebert began her position as executive vice president and provost in the spring of 2003, a position that was previously held by Dr. Bob Eaker. The hospitality that she has received makes her no less than ecstatic about her new role as a leading administrator at MTSU. Her duties include assisting President Sydney McPhee with management of the university and serving as the chief academic officer. Also, Gebert is responsible for the oversight and improvement of academic programs at MTSU. When asked of the improvements that she hopes to achieve at MTSU, she replied, "I want to help MTSU become a strong institution that has an increasingly wider regional and national reputation."

Dr. Gebert's independent and studious personality has helped her gain a reputation as a strong and determined woman. Serving 19 years in higher education administration, she has held jobs such as the associate vice chancellor for Academic and Student Affairs for the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education, the assistant vice chancellor for Academic Affairs for the Tennessee Board of Regents and, most recently, vice president for Academic Affairs and Provost at the University of North Alabama. In addition, she has taught at high school, undergraduate and graduate levels since 1968.

Although Dr. Kaylene Gebert's hectic and tiring schedule is filled with duties that must be fulfilled on a daily basis, she still enjoys renewing old friendships and meeting new people around campus. "I try to see each experience as a learning opportunity," she says, which is a philosophy she has lived by for many years. As an important leader at MTSU, Dr. Gebert's main focus is helping the university gain the recognition that it has been striving for over the past several years. "I look forward to working with MTSU's faculty and students to help them achieve their goals."

Alumni and professor
Bob Womack
celebrates 80th birthday

by Sandi Van Orden

In Professor Bob Womack's office in Jones Hall there is always music playing softly in the background. His office is decorated with pictures of his wife, children and grandchildren on walking horses. However, the professor can still remember when this building used to be his old dormitory when he attended MTSU in the 1940s.

Womack's time at MTSU started a long while before he received his education degree from the school. Womack was a first semester freshman here when Pearl Harbor was attacked, and America entered World War II. Because he felt it a patriotic duty, he left shortly after that to join the Navy. After a serving in the South Pacific, Womack returned to MTSU and finished his education in 1948.

After he got his teaching degree, he became an English teacher at Central High School and later became the principal of a junior high school in Lebanon. He then came back to MTSU, where he has been teaching ever since. Overall, Womack has taught for a total of 58 years, and all but 10 of those years were at MTSU.

Womack is now the oldest teacher at MTSU, who celebrates his 80th birthday in July 2003. During his time here, he has worked under all but two of the school's presidents. "There is no one here who was here when I started," he says.

But Womack does not let that bother him. He continues to teach a full load of classes as an education professor. His classes are informal and focus mostly on the philosophy of education. He explains his love for philosophy by saying, "There is no definite resolution. It is open ended. I don't like stop signs."

Womack enjoys bringing questions and different situations to his classes and letting the class react to the questions and respond to other students' answers.

"I want them to take it and think about it and analyze it, to reach their own conclusions," he explains.

Not all of his time has been spent teaching. He has written three books: Call for the Mighty Man on the Civil War, The Echo of Hoofbeats about walking horses and a Tennessee history textbook which he co-wrote.

Despite all the time that Womack has spent on campus and in the classrooms, he still looks forward to school starting each fall.

"I love teaching college students," Womack says. "I look forward to each new class."

Former graduate Robert McLean donated $1.5 million to the MTSU School of Music, which allowed them to buy 54 Steinway pianos.

School of Music Making a Name for Itself

by Julie Jenkins

A lifelong love of music and a strong belief that education is the key to success inspired Robert W. McLean to give something back to the university. Last summer, McLean, a 1972 graduate of MTSU and a Shelbyville, Tenn., native, made a $1.5 million contribution the to the School of Music. This generous contribution enabled the school to purchase 54 Steinway pianos and to receive the honorable designation of being an "All Steinway School." With this new designation, MTSU joins the ranks of the most prestigious schools in the world such as Juilliard, Yale, Oberlin, the Melbourne Faculty of Music and Beijing's China Conservatory. In recognition of his contribution, the university renamed the school of music the Robert W. McLean School of Music. On the new status and name change, President McPhee said, "We are delighted and honored to put Bob McLean's name on our School of Music. Bob has made significant contributions to his chosen field of business, his fellow man […] and this university. Steinway is a name associated with excellence throughout the world. It is only fitting that it is the instrument of record at the Robert W. McLean School of Music."

McLean made his name in the business world working with McLean & Company Investments. However, his love of music began at the age of five. McLean recalls "just playing around" on his grandmother's piano. He says he was never a serious musician, but he played in his high school band and in a Shelbyville area folk group in the 1960s until he was drafted into military service. During his military service his love of music stayed with him. He and some fellow servicemen were asked to perform in a concert for the commanding general. After completing his military service, McLean returned to MTSU and completed his degree in psychology with minors in business administration and finance. When asked what led him to make this generous contribution, he replied, "I believe that MTSU is the single most important asset in this community. I wanted MTSU students to learn on Steinway pianos. People are attracted to quality, and I feel MTSU's School of Music is on par with the best anywhere."

To recognize his contributions, the university sponsored a series of concerts throughout the fall semester. Guest performers included the Mac Frampton Trio, pianist Peter Serkin and the Beaux Arts Trio. With these achievements, the Robert W. McLean School of Music is well on its way to making a new name for itself.

Todd Building Renovations

Linda G. Selby

Renovations on the Todd building are under way, and one department is especially excited by the project: the art depart- ent. The new building will house this department, thanks to the ministration's push to carry it to completion.

The art department will occupy more than half the square footage in renovated building. The Gore Center, two dozen non-art faculty ices and a planned dean's office complex will occupy roughly one arter of the square footage. Another quarter of the square footage will occupied by technological service functions that will support all of building's operations.

"We are very happy that the Todd project is finally under way and are ateful that recent administrations have found the funds to carry it to mpletion," says Mark Price, department chair and professor of art. he art barn is decaying around us. It is too small and is not a very lthy or particularly pleasant structure to work in. Our department's -year temporary occupation of the art barn has been increasingly frus- ting, given the several false alarms over the years that indicated a new art building would soon be funded."

The art department has been told that they might be in the building as early as January 2005, but they should not be surprised if possible construction delays or other emergencies could hold up occupancy until the summer or fall of 2005.

The Todd space will consist of separate rooms, to keep specialized activities separate for differing safety, cleanliness, safe air ventilation and noise requirements. The art department has tried to create adjacencies among art disciplines so that some creative collaboration can better take place among students and faculty in related areas.

"We are glad to be undergoing this necessary move to Todd because it will better serve our students and faculty," explains Price. "We will face unforeseen difficulties in the transition to Todd, but our department's operations, faculty and students will finally be together. This will enhance our morale and sense of community, the efficiency of our day-to-day operations and the quality of our instruction. We also will stress the importance of the visual arts on our campus."

Scotty M. Tucker Memorial
Quiz Bowl

by Natasha Reddon

Each year, numerous clubs, fraternities and sororities gather to display their mental capabilities in a difficult, heated competition, the Scotty M. Tucker Quiz Bowl. The tournament allows students to display the knowledge that they have received while attending MTSU. Dr. Kenneth Hollman, the director of the quiz bowl, explains, "The main purpose of the Scotty M. Tucker Quiz Bowl is to provide a forum for trivia buffs across campus to demonstrate their keenness of wit and knowledge taught at MTSU, from anatomy to zoology."

Although all teams were worthy of being named the champions, only one team could receive the honor. In a repeat victory, the Intercollegiate Quiz Bowl Team (IQBT) secured their title of the quiz bowl champions. The accomplishment did not come with ease, however the IQBT faced fierce competition in the final seven-minute round from the History Club, who finished in second place. The prevailing team is comprised of Patrick Chinnery, Dennis Thibodeaux, Wendy Caldwell and Matthew Parriott. "We went into [the tournament] thinking that we had a good chance, and we lucked out with the questions that they asked," Chinnery remarked after his team's win.

The History Club refused to let their defeat eclipse their outstanding accomplishment of receiving the title of runner-up. After a disappointing loss, Sam Jenkins said, "I am glad that we did something for the History Club," which was an upstanding remark for such an upsetting day. The History Club not only placed second in this year's competition but also has respectively placed in the top three for the past three years.

The Campus Freethought Alliance took $20 as a prize for obtaining a third place victory over the Society of Physics Students in a three-minute showdown between the two teams. The Intercollegiate Quiz Bowl received $80; the History Club received $40.

"The quiz bowl was a great success," says Dr. Hollman. He announced that there will be another quiz bowl next year. Hopefully, more teams will participate in next year's event.

The energy was high as participants of Up 'Til Dawn (UTD) prepared for a celebration of sleep deprivation at the opening ceremony Friday, February 28, 2003.

While the rest of campus was closed, more than 200 students piled in the Rec center to party the night away. A total of 37 teams participated this year, which was up from last year's 23 teams, according to Jonathan Sanders, executive director of the event. The goal this year was to raise $5,000 for St. Jude's Children Research Hospital located in Memphis, Tenn.

MTSU has hosted Up 'Til Dawn for the past three years. This event is currently the largest philanthropic event on campus. Totaling all of the events, MTSU has sent St. Jude's more than $142,000. The money is well needed as the average daily running expenses for St. Jude approach $800,000.

The closing ceremony was the finale that resulted months of hard work. "I believe that the major factor of success for UTD was the people that we had on the committees and our faculty advisors as well," says Sanders. "We had a broad range of people on the UTD committee with a wide range of talents."

All campus organization were eligible to join in on the fun. Participants included the MTSU Dance team, Alpha Omega Pi, Phi Beta Sigma, Freshman Forum, Alpha Kappa Alpha, Zeta Tau Alpha, Alpha Chi Omega, Chi Omega, Pi Kappa Alpha, Lovely Lions, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Student Nurses, Kappa Delta, Phi Eta Sigma, Zeta Phi Beta, Dazzling Diamonds, Student Ambassadors, Pi Kappa Phi, NAACP/Delta Sigma Theta, Pi Sigma Epsilon, Proud Pis, Kappa Sigma, Delta Zeta, Alpha Tau Omega, NPHC and Alpha Phi Alpha. These teams had to raise at least $550 to attend. Profits from bake sales, step shows and a date auction helped the teams get the money they needed.

After raising this money, the teams celebrated at the closing ceremony. The party was filled with stimulating activitities in hopes of keeping the energy up. The Spirit Team, consisting of Emily Enderson, Tara Garrison and Samantha Caffey, taught participants a collaboration of hip-hop dances. All teams present competed in fun activities, including shooting hoops with President McPhee and his family, who were there to keep the party alive.

The Freshman Forum, an MTSU student origination, had five of its members present. President Elizabeth Lee was planning to use caffeine soft drinks and free cans of Red Bull, one of the event's sponsors, to keep her awake. Another Forum teammate, Austin Bennett, had stayed up the past two nights cramming for exams, so his chances of making it three in a row looked dim.

After the rooster crowed and the fat lady sang, the night finally ended. Lee and Bennett had made it through the night with some energy left over, and the campaign was a success. A check was presented to St. Jude's for $53,107. Some of the Up 'Til Dawn committee members expressed their happiness with tears of joy, knowing that, together, they had helped children in need.

We're just a group of guys getting together to play what we have grown up loving to do without all of the pressure that is usually associated with college baseball," remarks Kevin Jones, vice president of Club Baseball.

The MTSU Club Baseball Team was formed three years ago Blake Roden and Brandon Dill. The first year consisted of a small group of guys getting together to practice baseball. These guys were concerned with getting the club to grow in numbers, and so they made flyers to put at the Rec Center to invite guys to join them. This year the group is thrilled to have 30 people in the club. Roden explains, "I am so thankful for all the help Brandon and I have been blessed with since we started running the club team. Thanks so much guys with all the help and time you have put into the club team to make it what it is today!!!"

Last year, the guys got involved with the National Club Baseball Association (NCBA). The group is proud of this accomplishment because they are the only baseball club in the state of Tennessee! Being a part of the NCBA invites the guys to play teams throughout the Southeast in the Dixie Conference. Because they are the only group in Tennessee, the guys must travel out to other states such as South Carolina, Georgia, Indiana, Illinois and others. The guys use this time to bond as a team, as well as do homework in between games and sleep.

The guys can be seen wearing the Raiders' colors of blue, white and gray. They commit much of their spare time to be in the club. The club is year round and the guys practice two times a week during the fall and three times a week during the spring. The guys usually practice at Middle Tennessee Christian School or any other venue that allows them the use of a field.

The officers of the club are: president Blake Roden and vice president Kevin Jones. The jobs of these guys is to schedule games, set up practices and get the uniforms before each game. Transporting and repairing equipment is also time consuming for the two officers.

Roden explains, "My favorite part of the club team is actually three things. The games we play, the traveling to go play different teams and the satisfaction of winning with the friends I have made playing for the club team. I love you guys!!!

The Equestrian Team at MTSU consists of a group of 60-70 students that are true horse-lovers. The team takes riders from all levels, from beginners to the experienced. These students compete in all sorts of events as well as some service projects.

The club is a good way to show horses without having all of the expenses and bills to pay. Although the team supports the horses with tuition, they do not have to pay for vet bills, shoeing, shipping of horses or feed. "I have always enjoyed horses and this was an opportunity to continue to show through college when I did not have the time or money to show my own horse," states Jaclyn Ohman, the team's secretary.

Anne Brzezicki serves as the sponsor and coach of the team. "Coaching the Equestrian Team is so very rewarding because it gives me the opportunity to develop our students into functionally sound riders with the skills to communicate with most horses completely," she says. "I love to see their confidence grow along with their skills and to see them become successful in competition as a result of practice and study."

The group is very diverse, having members from New York to Florida, West Virginia to Arkansas, as well as some that have lived their entire lives in Murfreesboro. The officers for the team consist of president Kathryn Duncan, vice president Diedre Stampler and secretary Ohman. The team's coaches are Mary Houghston, Faye Lynn Coffey and Brzezicki. These coaches give lessons, prep before the shows and coach during riding. The team managers, Lori Puckett and Erica Devries, keep up with all of the show points and make the traveling arrangements.

"I feel this year is a new leaf," says Ohman. "Our entire group of officers have never held an office before, and, for most of us, it is only our sophomore year."

This year is exciting for the group because they have a new facility, Miller Coliseum. The new building includes barns, classrooms, breeding labs, faculty offices and an indoor practice arena.

The team is active in a variety of events. They volunteer their time at the Music City Arabian Horse Show in Shelbyville, Tenn., and they host the Intercollegiate National Championship Horse show at Miller Coliseum. As a service project, the team puts on a state championship horse-judging contest for the Future Farmers of America and 4-H high school students. Team member Betsy Burns says, "I enjoy being part of a club associated with school, meeting people and being involved with the horses."

The Equestrian Team members may have different reasons for joining, but they all have one thing in common: "We are a group of people who love horses," says Ohman.

"Some of us are pursuing careers in the horse industry and some are not, some are interested in showing horses, while others just want to be around horses," she continues. "We also build lifelong friendships, and we all have fun!"

In the spring of 1997, Erin Hubbard and Dr. Patrice Caux came together to start the MTSU Fencing Club. Hubbard and Caux took their cue from the students who wanted to learn the ancient art of fencing. Fencing had originally been taught as part of the HPERS course classes but was, unfortunately, cancelled. The fencing club gave students somewhere to go for the lessons needed to learn how to fence. "If there was no fencing club, I would have never learned the sport," claims Jameson Herndon, the club's president.

The art of fencing is an individual sport involving skill, agility, fitness and tactics. Fencing dates back to various cultures as early as 1190 B.C., where there is a recorded bout, or fight, at the Temple of Madinet Habu, erected by Rameses III, near Luxor. When performed correctly, fencing reveals an artistic quality, coordination and concentration of the mind, body and blade.

"Fencing is a pure form of competition," says Herndon. "It is a one-on-one sport with no team dynamic. If you lose, it is your fault. The one-on-one combat appeals to everyone on some level because it has a timeless, romantic quality to it."

Every year since 1997, the fencing club has been meeting at least once a week. For the past couple of years they have been meeting twice a week. With more meetings and the recruitment of new members, the fencing club hopes to expand enough to attend more tournaments throughout the year.

These tournaments are held at various schools and towns. The fencing club attends many of these at Vanderbilt University in Nashville. There are about 100 competitors in local competitions but as many as thousands in national competitions. The national tournaments allow the contestants to receive national rankings, which could ultimately lead to the Olympic games.

Before a member can even dream of the Olympics, he or she must first learn the basics. On Tuesday nights at 6 p.m., members dedicate the first hour to teaching new members the basic steps such as advance, retreat, attack, parry and riposte. "I would say it takes at least six months to get good enough to make fencing fun and not work," says vice president Elliot Fisher.

On Friday nights from 6-9 p.m., the club focuses more on advanced members. There is a saying that it takes two lifetimes to master the art of fencing, because once someone has truly "mastered" all there is about the sport they are far past their athletic prime.

Fencing has grown to be loved by the students despite the cancellation of the course. The current club members carry the fencing torch for MTSU students to come. The MTSU Fencing Club is an opportunity to learn the ancient art of fencing and also to make friends.

"I can't think of anyone who has ever been a part of the club that didn't have a good attitude," says Herndon. "I like to think we do a good job of teaching lessons while having a lot of fun at the same time."

Jessi Muse and Tim Duncan were greatly disappointed when they came to MTSU and found there was no swing dance club. Muse and Duncan had been dancing in the swing dance club at Riverdale High School, which has been around for six years, and were not allowed to continue participating after graduation, so they decided to start their own organization in the spring of 2003, the Guys & Dolls Swing Dance Club.

"Guys & Dolls was created to give people a new appreciation for the impact of swing dance and to supply a place to dance for those who already possess the passion," explains Muse.

Students who attend the Guys & Dolls meetings spend their Monday nights learning the dance art of the East Coast Swing where they would jump, jive and wail. Members learn moves such as the Gin-A-Tonic, Cable Car, Waterfall, Pretzel and Baby Doll.

"The hardest one to do is the Baby Doll," says Duncan, "because it takes tons of momentum and it is very dangerous. The guy swings the girl behind his back with her head about 2 inches off the ground."

Swing dance became popular in the 1940s with bands such as Glen Miller Orchestra, Artie Shaw and Benny Goodman. Swing still lives today and is referred to as "neo-swing," and bands such as the Cherry Poppin' Daddies, Royal Crown Revue and the Big Bad Voo Doo Daddies can be heard playing in swing dance clubs everywhere.

Guys & Dolls began its first year with activities that went back to the swing era. One such activity was when members spent a whole day traveling around Nashville, hopping from one thrift store to the next, looking for clothes from the swing dance era.

Guys & Dolls also held a luau at a member's house. Members spent the evening cooking out, handing out club shirts, having a dance competition and watching the movie "Swing Kids" on a projector outside.

"Some of our future plans are to find and attend some competitions," says Duncan. "We also would like to possibly put some kind of dance team together and see if we can dance at a football halftime show."

Swing dance has remained a favorite past time throughout history. Actor and writer Nicholas Hope once said, "Swing is so much more than a dance. It's a way of life. The music gets stuck in your mind and the dance is in your heart and the whole scene is engraved on your soul. You can fly."

The Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA) is a valuable asset to students who are interested public relations. PRSSA is an organization that helps prepare students for a career in public relations by providing them with knowledge about the profession that they cannot gain from a textbook or classroom lecture. Those involved with PRSSA here at MTSU have been working hard to make the organization as beneficial to students as possible.

One of the ways they are working to achieve this goal is through the use of guest speakers. Throughout the year, a variety of public relations professionals come to speak at the bi-weekly meetings.

"Speakers provide inside information about the world of PR today," explains PRSSA president Heather Davis. "Textbooks and classes are the foundations and theories that guide us, but what we learn from speakers and experience in PRSSA is the finishing touch." In addition to insight into their future career PRSSA also helps with building resumes, preparing for interviews and finding internships.

Another unique feature of the PRSSA chapter here at MTSU is the student-run firm Emerge. Emerge was founded in January 2002 by Janice Tanedo as a way for students to get some real world, hands-on PR experience. Some of the firm's current projects include assisting the university with the International Conference on Cultural Diversity and, this year, for the first time, having a team of students competing in the Bateman Competition. The participating students are designing a PR campaign to aid the Ford Motor Company in educating college students on the value of establishing good credit.

MTSU's PRSSA chapter has grown a lot in recent years, and they hope that trend will continue. One of their big goals is to increase membership. Dr. Maria Zenaida Sarabia Panol, the organization's adviser, says that joining PRSSA is very beneficial.

"There's a world of benefits that they can get being active members of a professionally-affiliated organization," Dr. Panol explains. Although the organization is growing, its focus remains the same: to help mold MTSU students into outstanding public relations professionals.

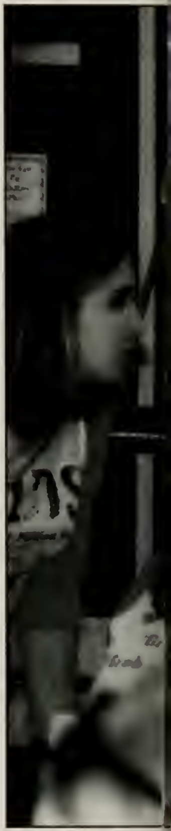
SGA stands for Student Government Association, a group that serves as the liaison between the student body of MTSU and its faculty, bringing student issues and concerns to the forefront. It also arranges campus functions and events, such as homecoming, the visit of the AIDS quilt and road rallies to support the Blue Raiders. With all these different functions, the SGA requires a lot of people to make things happen, arranged in a tiered structure from the president of the SGA to each and all students of the university, who, by their enrollment alone, are automatically members. There are elections every spring to elect new students to the leadership positions, and for the 2003-2004 year, like every other, each officer is a unique and vital part of SGA and MTSU.



This year's president was Michele Butler, who served as Vice President of Administration and Public Affairs from 2002-2003. Among her duties were to attend MTSU President Dr. Sidney McPhee's weekly staff meetings as well as those for the Tennessee Board of Regents; to prepare the SGA's annual budget; and to preside over SGA meetings and events. Among her goals for the year were to extend library and recreation center hours; to establish a credit system for purchases both on- and off-campus in association with certain businesses; to change the name of Tennessee Boulevard to "Middle Tennessee Boulevard" in recognition of MTSU; and to further experiment with alternative means of public transportation on campus.

Two vice presidents ably supported Butler: Amanda Newman, executive vice president and speaker of the Senate, and Jon Stewart, vice president for administration and public affairs. Newman is responsible for planning and holding the SGA Senate meetings, including planning agendas, organizing legislation and submitting prospective bills to the president. She is also the link between the Senate and students. Stewart coordinates and assigns student representatives to all University Standing Committees, organizes road rallies and, most importantly, publicizes every event sponsored by SGA.

Senators represent individual colleges, and they are elected on the basis of how many students comprise each one. Any student can be elected to the position, but prospective officers must maintain a certain GPA and a high work ethic as to stand for their college. They form into the SGA Senate, which met this year on a biweekly basis to address the issues of the students.

Is it possible to have fun while serving as a host or hostess? The MTSU Student Ambassadors think so. "The group is a co-adhesive team which serves the university," says president Ashley Elizabeth Graham.

The Student Ambassador group has been active since 1978, still upholding its reputation of being prominently prestigious. Originally housed in the Development Office, it is now located in the Alumni Office. More than 375 students have served as ambassadors during the past 25 years. The club has always had vast competition when it is time to turn in applications—this year there were 60 applicants and only 15 spots to fill.

The ambassadors are required to fill out applications covering scholastic achievements and school involvement, which are then reviewed by a panel of judges and scored according to the applicants' knowledge of MTSU as well as their people skills. Ambassadors can be members for up to three years but must have completed at least one semester at MTSU and have an a cumulative GPA of 2.5 in order to apply.

Receiving the honor of becoming an ambassador requires the students to follow a point system. If the students receive all their points throughout the year, he or she receives a scholarship for the following semester. Member Keith Beckman said that he decided to apply for the position because he has been involved with MTSU his entire life. "It is exciting for me to be involved with an elite group and have the opportunity to work with wonderful people while meeting new people!" he exclaims.

What exactly do Student Ambassadors do? "The job of a student ambassador is to serve as the ultimate, official host or hostess at MTSU," advisor Katy Rodriguez explains. These "leaders" of MTSU go through training sessions to learn their duties and how to interact with the people that they encounter.

The ambassadors work at all major events that take place on campus and can easily be picked out of a crowd because of their uniforms. A distinguished uniform consisting of a blue blazer jacket and dress pants or skirts sets the ambassadors off from the rest of the crowd. These events include presidential alumni dinners, departmental, academic, and athletic events. Graham and Beckman both admit their love of Blue Raider football. The ambassadors work in the presidential suites during all of the home games, serving as hosts or hostesses.

"This is a neat responsibility to have!" pronounces Graham. "For some people, we, the ambassadors are the first, last and only faces that some people have to remember MTSU by."

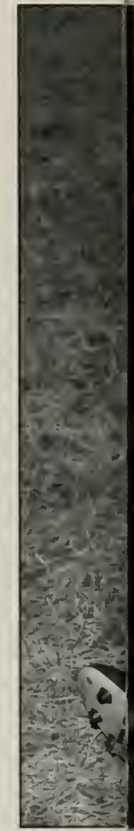
A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step," Paul Linhardt, the president of the Ultimate Frisbee Club, says enthusiastically about his hopes and dreams for the newly re-activated club. The club was founded several years ago, but started up again in the Fall 2002, and it's been growing ever since. With Linhardt as president and Justin Witt as vice president and Linhardt's right-hand man, they are looking for more members to come out and have fun while learning and being competitive.

Ultimate Frisbee, which began in 1967, is a physically demanding sport when played at high levels of competition but can be enjoyed by everyone. It is a team sport in which the team with the higher point total at the end of the game wins. It is played with two teams of seven players on a rectangular field with an end zone at each end. A goal, worth one point, is scored when a player passes the disc to a teammate, and it is successfully caught within the confines of the end zone his or her team is attacking. The disc may only be advanced by passing the disc from one player to another.

While in possession of the disc, a player may not run. The team tries to advance the disc toward the end zone it is attacking while the opposing team seeks to thwart advancement and obtain possession of the disc causing a turnover. There is no overt contact or tackling. The sport is played on a self-officiated basis with no referees. All line violation, possession and foul calls are made by the players on the playing field.

"Because the players officiate the game, good sportsmanship is at the very heart of Ultimate Frisbee," says Linhardt. "There are squabbles and arguments, but not nearly as frequent as any other sport."

Competition is in the format of a tournament and consists of any number of teams divided into different divisions. Open division is open to all players but is primarily men. Women have their own division, and mixed or co-ed teams are made of both sexes. However, a certain number of men and women must be playing. The older and more experienced players play in the masters' division.



The MTSU Ultimate Frisbee Club participated in the open division but hopes to be able to field teams for both open and women's divisions. Currently, there are about 15 members who regularly attend practice. "We work closely to get tournaments, travel and practices scheduled and rolling," explains Linhardt. "Practices are at 7-10 p.m. on the fields next to the new Honors College building on Sundays, Mondays and Wednesdays. We begin with throwing practices, some running and drills, then scrimmage around 8:30 p.m."

The long-term goal is simple for this club: success. They want to become a school with an ultimate Frisbee program, not just a club.

"Right now we want to gain enough committed members to field both women's and open teams," says Linhardt. "The hardest thing is dedication to the game. We want everyone to come out and play, but, in that, we hope to get some of those to get the addiction to the game that a lot of us already have."

by Linda G. Selby

Women's rugby at MTSU formed in the fall of 1997. At that time there were about 22 to 24 players and two coaches. Coach Dara "Cowboy" Smith, a USA Rugby Club certified level I, II, and III coach and Coach Shelly Christian, a former player of the women's team who will be getting her Level I in January 2004.

The basics of the game are the players play 15 on 15 in two 40 minute halves. The ball is very much like the football, but a little bit wider and no laces. The ball must be passed laterally or behind laterally. The ball cannot pass forward and moving the ball forward can only be done by running with it or kicking it. To score, the player must literally touch the ball down on the ground in the try zone (the try zone is what everyone would recognized as the end zone in football). A try is worth 5 points and a conversion is worth 2 points. To restart the ball after it has gone out of bounds, the player would have a lineout or if it is a penalty during play it would be either a scrum down or a penalty kick. The women's team has had some bad luck due to a lack of numbers, but with the recent addition of rugby being offered as a HYPERS class and also the addition of two coaches, things have drastically changed for the better for the first time in several years.

This year the team was composed of about 60-65 percent rookies, and completed this fall season 5-3. The girls played teams like University of Tennessee - Knoxville, Mississippi State University, among others. Their biggest accomplishment was a 17-10 victory over Mississippi State University. They were definitely the underdogs of the match and were not predicted to win.

"I could not have been more proud," said Coach Smith.

Rugby is composed of three seasons throughout the year: Summer 7's are played - it is a smaller version of the regular game played only in tournaments; Fall - the season of recruiting and learning the game and just having fun; Spring is the championship season, the goal of trying to qualify for the south championships and national championship series.

"The spring of 2004 will be the girls' first attempt to try to qualify. They have been unable to do so in the past due to numbers and eligibility rules. I believe that if this program is going to go somewhere, the girls will have to start playing better teams and trying to qualify for the championship series," said Smith. "This is my third time coaching the women's rugby team because I played for the men's team for five years. Coaching women is different than coaching a men's team as I coached high school boy's rugby for three years and am a co-founder of the Tennessee high school rugby league."

Coach Smith said that he enjoys coaching the MTSU women's rugby team better than all of the other coaching jobs he has had. He said personally he has always been a big advocate of women in sports mainly because they do not get enough credit and that there are lots of women athletes that are better than men. They still don't get enough credit. But he said he feels that by coaching the women's rugby team gives him the chance to coach the sport he loves and to promote women in sports at the same time where he can help contribute to the credit that they deserve.

The 2003 All Sing was sponsored by Tau Omicron Women's Honor Society and the Panhellenic Commmittee. Alpha Delta Pi won first place, with Allison Lunsford as the director and Erica Smith as the graduate advisor. Advisors for the ceremonies were Dr. Jackie Eller and Dr. Nancy Goldberg. The All Sing judges were Christine Isley-Farmer, Christina Moore, Angie Simmons and Kim Godwin. The master of ceremonies was John Hood. All proceeds earned from the night go to the Domestic Violence Shelter of Murfreesboro.

Alpha Delta Pi

Epsilon Tau Chapter

Alpha Delta Pi was the first secret society in the world for college women, founded by six idealistic young women on May 15, 1851, at Wesleyan Female College in Macon, Ga. Its original name was the "Adelphean Society." In 1904, the Adelphean Society became a national sorority and changed its name to Alpha Delta Phi. In 1913 the name was changed once again, to Alpha Delta Pi, due to confusion with the fraternity of the same name. Throughout its history, Alpha Delta Pi has always stood for the same ideals: scholastic achievement, high moral principles, and true friendship.

Members of Alpha Delta Pi focus on the four points of the diamond which include social, service, sisterhood, and scholarship. However, service is one point of the diamond that is focused on immensely. In the last year, ADPi organized a brand new philanthropic event which benefited the national philanthropy, the Ronald McDonald House. The event was a cheerleading camp that was open to children in the Murfreesboro community.

Along with fund raising, the chapter also values the donation of time, participating in numerous volunteer projects. Many of them benefit the Murfreesboro community, such as working with other fund raisers or working at elementary school carnivals.

Community service is something that ADPi strives to participate in as much as possible. Without these opportunities, the Alpha Delta Pi experience would not be complete.

Alpha Gamma Rho

Beta Theta Chapter

Alpha Gamma Rho's Beta Theta Chapter hosted the 2nd annual Hay Daze week Sept. 22-26 to help support their philanthropy Farm Safety 4 Just Kids.

This philanthropy was set up by Marilyn Adams in 1986 after her son died in a farming accident on their farm in Iowa.

During the week, members of Alpha Gamma Rho and various other student organizations participated in activities and events that supported the philanthropy. On Monday night, the Cowgirl Olympics was held in the Tennessee Livestock Center. Teams of six girls competed in events such as a sunflower seed spitting contest, tug-o-war, wheelbarrow races and a hay bale toss.

Tuesday night a line dancing party was held at AGR's house, with dance instructors.

On Wednesday, an AGR Sweetheart Pageant was held. In this event, the girls competed in a talent competition and answered agricultural questions.

Thursday, the brothers organized a blood drive held at the KUC. And on Friday, a mechanical bull-riding contest was held at Stampede Dance Hall and Saloon.

While planning the week, the brothers also went out in the local community and got sponsorships from local companies. The money that was raised from sponsorships and admission fees was donated to their philanthropy.

Alpha Omicron Pi

Rho Omicron Chapter

Founded in 1897 and chartered here at MTSU in 1985, Alpha Omicron Pi is a charitable organization that takes pride in sisterhood guided by fraternal love. The sisters of Alpha Omicron Pi are involved in a number of campus-wide organizations such as Student Government, Alpha Omega, Blue Belles, Order of Omega and many more. "The object of this fraternity shall be to encourage a spirit of fraternity and love among its members; to stand at all times for character, dignity, scholarship and college loyalty; to strive for and support the best interests of the colleges and universities in which chapters are installed, and in no way to disregard, injure or sacrifice those interests for the sake of the prestige or advancement of the fraternity or any of its chapters."

Not only do the sisters of Alpha Omicron Pi enjoy getting together for mixers, formals and other sisterhood events, they enjoy lending a helping hand as well. Alpha Omicron Pi is known on campus and throughout the community for fund-raisers and philanthropic services. Alpha Omicron Pi recognizes the Rho Omicron chapter as being one of the top chapters nationwide for its philanthropic contributions. This past October they raised more than $15,500 for the Arthritis Foundation at the Seventh Annual Smoke Arthritis Barbeque. The barbeque is just one of many community wide fund raisers in which Alpha Omicron Pi takes part. Others include Alpha Jam, The Aids Quilt, Heart Walk, Special Kids, Habitat for Humanity and many more.

Alpha Phi Alpha

Kappa Xi Chapter

The Kappa Xi chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha was founded at MTSU in the fall of 1974. It was founded by a group of eight men known as the "Absederian Eight" who saw a need for African American advancement on campus.

In the past year the Kappa Xi chapter has done a tremendous job of building upon the foundation that the "Cornell Seven" laid for the Fraternity in 1906. In February 2003, the chapter participated in MTSU's first NPHC Unity and Leadership Conference in Atlanta, Ga. The chapter received several awards: Outstanding Fraternity of the Year, Unity Award, Most Outstanding Philanthropy and NPHC Member with the Highest GPA.

The Kappa Xi chapter is active in the Murfreesboro community. The chapter volunteers at a nearby childcare center, Wee Care Day Care, twice a month. The chapter also sponsors numerous events on campus such as, a Greek forum, a freshmen forum, an "Ujoma," or Unity, Soul Food Feast and a "Cooking For a Cure" Fish Fry, where the proceeds were donated to Project Cure.

The chapter works diligently to strive to uplift the African American student. One of the major service projects that the chapter does is an Alpha Awareness Week, which is a week full of different seminars and forums on several issues that African Americans are threatened by, such as Breast Cancer Awareness, AIDS/HIV Awareness, Alcohol Awareness and many others.

Alpha Tau Omega

Eta Nu Chapter

Alpha Tau Omega participates in many philanthropy events. Over the course of the past year, they have donated time and money to programs such as the Accelerated Reader program, which encourages children to read, helped the homeless and supported our nation's soldiers by sending items from toothbrushes to phone cards.

One of the fundraisers we enjoy most is Up til Dawn. This is an event that allows the opportunity to interact with other fraternities and sororities, while raising money for a very worthy cause, St. Jude's Children's Hospital. St. Jude's is ATO's national philanthropy that they support. This is because St. Jude's saves lives regardless if the family can pay the bills or not. Nonetheless, the organization needs over $650,000 a day to operate.

However, the fundraiser that Alpha Tau Omega is best known for is Alpha Jam. This charity event is hosted every spring with the help of their sister sorority, Alpha Omicron Pi. Alpha Jam is a three on three basketball tournament to benefit the Juvenile Arthritis Foundation by raising money and promoting awareness. Particpants seek out local area business to sponsor the event with cash and prizes for the winners, while the entry fee of each team is donated to the Foundation.

The brothers of Alpha Tau Omega recognize the necessity of giving back, not only to the Murfreesboro community, but all of those in need whether it is the children at St. Jude's Children's Hospital or our troops courageously serving abroad.

Chi Omega

Zeta Theta Chapter

The Zeta Theta Chapter of the Chi Omega Fraternity donates time and money to the Make-A-Wish Foundation. The Make-A-Wish foundation was formed 23 years ago and has now become the largest wish-granting charity in the world. Since 1980, the foundation has granted more than 97,000 wishes to children who have life-threatening illnesses.

Not every child's condition has to be terminal to qualify for the wish program. The wish categories are: I wish to be. . ., I wish to go. . ., I wish to have. . ., and I wish to meet. . .. The family of the child is not responsible for any of the costs. Everything is paid for through the Make-A-Wish foundation.

Nationally, Chi Omega chapters are the second largest donor to Make-A-Wish. Every spring, the Zeta Theta chapter hosts the annual Mr. MTSU pageant. This pageant is organized and run by Chi Omega's. The men who compete in the pageant perform dance numbers, model swimsuits and evening wear and present their talents. All proceeds go directly to the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

Last year, the Zeta Theta Chapter raised more than $4,300 at the Mr. MTSU pageant. The money raised helped to grant the wishes of young children. With the help of Chi Omega, a young girl was able to go to Disney World. The girl made an appearance at last year's pageant and shared her experiences.

Community service is an important aspect to being a Chi Omega. They devote their time to many other charities in the Middle Tennessee area.

Delta Zeta

Iota Iota Chapter

Delta Zeta's philanthropy focuses on speech and hearing. The Delta Zeta Foundation is a public non-profit organization arranged for charitable and educational purposes and focuses on raising money that will benefit many different groups. The money raised by Delta Zeta benefits both Gallaudet University and the House Ear Institute. Gallaudet University is located in Washington, D. C., and remains the only fully accredited four-year liberal arts college for the hearing impaired in the world. Delta Zeta's contributions to Gallaudet led to the opening of a dance facility named after the sorority with special equipment for the deaf and hearing impaired. The House Ear Institute, located in Los Angeles is nationally known for its medical research and treatment of hearing losses.

Here at MTSU, the Iota Iota chapter of Delta Zeta hosted its first annual Turtle Tug competition this year, in which the money raised went to benefit the aforementioned organizations. The event was a tug-o-war tournament in which the losing teams were pulled into Jell-O. Members of Delta Zeta also showed their support for U.S. troops this year in a letter writing campaign. The women also frequent the Murfreesboro Residential Care Center to throw parties for and visit with the elderly residents. Throughout the year, Delta Zeta also participates in annual campus philanthropy events such as Up 'Til Dawn and the AIDS Quilt awareness events. The sorority displays its philanthropic and Greek spirit by contributing to the service projects of other fraternities and sororities each year.

Pi Kappa Phi

Delta Iota Chapter

Founded as Nu Phi (the non-fraternity) in Charleston, SC, at the turn of the 20th Century, Pi Kappa Phi was based on friendship and trust to a nationwide brotherhood. Pi Kappa Phi firmly believes in the tenets of Character, Leadership, Academics, Sportsmanship and Service. These principles are not only valued but instilled through leading-edge educational, service and leadership opportunities.

The Delta Iota chapter of Pi Kappa Phi made history on Nov. 7, 2003, when it became active after lying dormant for over 20 years. The MTSU men of Pi Kappa Phi spent almost two years as a colony before reaching their goal of initiation and chartering.

The fraternity boasts the only philanthropy that was created, owned and operated solely by a Greek letter organization, Push America. The brothers of Pi Kappa Phi have raised over $6 million for Push America, which benefits people with disabilities by funding outreach projects and awareness events. In the last year, the fraternity applied for, and was awarded, a grant for the MTSU Disabled Students Services for $1,500. In addition, they were also awarded a grant for $1,000 which was used to buy 125 carbon-less copy notebooks that notetakers can use for their students.

Pi Kappa Phi has been recognized on the national level numerous times. In addition, the fraternity is the only men's organization to ever win an award from the National Organization for Women (NOW). They won a National Advertising Agency Network "Gold Medal" for their anti-date rape campaign.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Tennessee Beta Chapter

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, founded in 1856 at the University of Alabama, was the first fraternity established in the South. The Tennessee Beta chapter was chartered on Dec.13, 1969, at MTSU.

Currently, Sigma Alpha Epsilon won the award for the largest philanthropic fund-raiser with the Miss MTSU/Miss Blue Raider Pageant, raising over $10,000 for scholarships for women on campus. The Miss MTSU/ Miss Blue Raider Pageant is the largest local feeder pageant for the Miss Tennessee crown and has been successfully run by their chapter since 1975. In addition, this is the only pageant in the state run by college students.

For the past five years, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Alpha Delta Pi have hosted "Trunk or Treat" for children with disabilities. The Murfreesboro community had expressed the need to provide activities accessible for children with special needs during Halloween and SAE was quick to respond to the community's plea for help. They park their vehicles in a semi-circle around the Greenland Drive parking lot and decorate their trunks with spider webs, ghosts, pumpkins, and other Halloween decorations. Murfreesboro Fire Department parks a fire engine at the event while they give away hats and stickers to the children. Face painting, cake walks, as well as lots of candy are available for the participants.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is consistently one of the fraternities to maintain one of the highest cumulative GPAs for the larger fraternities.

In addition, Sigma Alpha Epsilon gives away 24 scholarships each year totaling over $200,000.

Rose and Emmett Kennon

Sports Ha

by Julie Jenkins

The newest addition to the MTSU campus is the Emmett and Rose Kennon Sports Hall of Fame. This long-awaited addition to campus is a 7,400 square foot state of the art building adjacent to the Murphy Center. The building will be comprised of three sections: an exhibit area, a meeting hall and a gathering porch. The meeting hall, capable of seating 150-250 people, will be used for dinners and lectures. The exhibits area will provide a permanent home for the growing collection of photographs and artifacts of Middle Tennessee sports history. The gathering porch will serve as a place to hold game day gatherings as well as hall of fame induction ceremonies.

This addition was made possible thanks in large part to the generosity of Emmett Kennon. "Kennon has shown a great deal of love for this athletic department with his generosity," says Boots Donnelly, MTSU Athletic Director, "His gift will be a lasting legacy for the athletic department and the university as a whole."

Mr. Kennon, a 1938 graduate of MTSU, was involved in student life while attending the university. In addition to playing both baseball and football, he served as editor of Sidelines for three years and editor of the Midlander for one year. "For me, this building is a dream come true. It's impossible for me to put into words the feeling I have for this institution, so making the Blue Raider Hall of Fame a reality is my way of expressing them," says Kennon, explaining what inspired his generosity.

This project has been a long time coming for the university, and everyone involved seems thrilled that it's finally underway. President McPhee expressed his excitement, adding, "The Middle Tennessee Athletic Department has long-needed a place to enshrine its hall of fame members and serve as a place for all our former athletes to gather when they visit campus. Mr. Kennon's generous gift will provide such a place." The new hall of fame will honor the best of the best that have been a part of MTSU athletics throughout the university's history and will be a great source of pride for all MTSU students.

The Blue Raider baseball team made its third appearance in four years at the NCAA regional tournament after winning the Sun Belt Conference urnament in May 2003.

Middle Tennessee took an 8-5 victory over the Hilltoppers of Western entucky University for the tourney trophy but was eliminated from the NCAA urney a week later during the second round of play.

After 60 games of play, the Blue Raiders finished the season with a 33-27 ecord and a 10-13 record in SBC play.

"We have a tremendously strong non-conference schedule, and that is great," T head coach Steve Peterson said before the season. "Once we get into conerence play, we will see how we can play; and when we get into the second art of the season, and we are in the top four, then we will say, 'Boys, let's go fter the championship'."

Short of a championship, the team did have many highlights of the season. ne of these highlights included a player taken by the Major League draft.

Chad Cooper signed in the eleventh round with the Tampa Bay Devil Rays. ooper led the team in batting average with a .374 BA and started 52 games.

Cooper was named First-Team All-SBC selection this season after batting 74 with 14 doubles, seven home runs, 35 RBIs and 52 runs scored. The icture Rocks, Pa., native also stole 19 bases and struck out only 22 times in lmost 200 times at the plate.

Sophomore Brett Carroll came in shortly behind with a .330 BA and played in l the games this season. Carroll smacked 19 homeruns and 52 RBIs. He had 73 its, which included 18 doubles and a .670 slugging percentage.

Junior Chuck Akers was the only other member of the squad to start 60 ames. The Murfreesboro, Tenn., native hit a .263 and slammed nine doubles, vo triples and a homerun.

Sophomore Steve Kline led the pitching lineup with a 4.75 ERA and record f 7-4. In 89 innings pitched Kline gave up 14 runs, and opponents had a .291 A against him.

The Middle Tennessee men's basketball team began the 2002-03 season with a new face as the head coach.

MT head coach Kermit Davis led the Blue Raiders to a 16-14, 9-5 season with an appearance in the Sun Belt Tournament's championship game.

The Blue Raiders dropped a 64-52 decision to the Western Kentucky University at the championship game on March 11.

After Davis' debut season, he was named the SBC Coach of Year due to leading the Blue Raiders to the most wins in a season in school history.

Junior Tommy Gunn also established record book numbers by surpassing the 1,000-point mark. Gunn became only the 27th man in MT men's basketball history to go beyond this mark.

With the marks that Gunn put up, the SBC placed him on the First Team All-SBC team and the All-SBC Tournament team.

Five seniors graduated after their championship appearance: William Pippen, Eric Parham, Bryant Mitchell, John Humphrey and Demario Watson.

Pippen made marks on the Blue Raiders squad by also being selected for the All-SBC Tournament Team and the named Third Team All-SBC. He scored 250 points on the season and led the Blue Raiders with an average of 17.9 points per game. He was recently invited to attend the Phoenix Suns' camp and is expected to sign a free agent contract with them.

Humphrey tallied the second spot on the team in scoring with 466 points and an average of 15.5 points per game. He contributed to the MT win over the University of Denver, which led MT to the championship game, with 15 points and six rebounds.

With the loss of five seniors, the 2003-04 season should be full of fresh, new faces in the starting lineup.

The men's cross country team finished the 2003 season with an eighth place finish in the Sun Belt Conference tourna- nent. The only Raider to qualify for a birth in the NCAA tournament vas freshman David Hughes who placed 11th in the Sun Belt and laced 87th overall in the NCAA with a 33-minute and 15-second ime in the 10K race.

The Raiders were led by Hughes with a 27-minute run of the 8K ourse, due to the absence of senior Geoffrey Lagat who sat out ecause of an injury. Trailing behind Hughes was Zack Wood who inished in 29:55.77 to place 36th, while Tony Carufe was 42nd in at 0:26.93. Senior Anthony McGary came in 53rd in at 32:39.04, arlos Gonzales was 59th in at 34:04.93, and Tim Hicks placed 62nd n at 35:51.36.

Before having to sit out with an injury, Lagat placed second in the season opening 5K run and 5th in the follow competition in the 5-mile run. His time of 15-minutes and 31-seconds in the 5K run was the fastest time set this season by a Blue Raider. With his second place finish, the Raiders pulled out an eighth place win in the University of Tennessee - Chattanooga event. "Geoffrey ran really well, and David ran well for his first college experience," head coach Dean Hayes said. "He got a few lessons about running in college. Zack also ran well the second half of the race."

The Blue Raider's cross country team has a bright future ahead of it with freshmen David Hughes and Zack Wood to lead them to victories in the next three years. The focus is now on physical and emotional preparations for the new season.

Finishing the season with a 4-8 record, the Blue Raiders were still able to keep their heads high. Five Raiders were named to the all Sun Belt Conference team, with Brandon Westbrook and Kerry Wright receiving first team honors. "The season didn't go the way we had hoped but we still had some big moments, and these five guys were a big reason for some of that success," said head coach Andy McCollum.

First of all, their four wins came from conference play, giving them a winning record (4-3) in the Sun Belt conference. This includes a strong win against Arkansas State in the season ender, which gives Andy McCollum his fifth season-ender win in as many seasons. In like manner, five of the eight defeats were decided by a touchdown or less including a one-point loss to the Southeastern Conference powerhouse Georgia in Athens, and two losses at home in overtime.

Wide receiver Kerry Wright ended the season with an astonishing 1,280 receiving yards. This feat earned Wright the all-time record for Sun Belt receiving yards, breaking the previous record by 82 yards. Brandon Westbrook led the Blue Raiders in snaps played and total knockdowns giving him his third All-Conference first team honors. Michael Woods ended up with 58 tackles, one sack and two interceptions, which includes the interception returned for a touchdown that sealed the MT win against Sun Belt foe New Mexico State. Demetrios Walker ranked second in the Sun Belt for best defensive linemen. Walker led the Blue Raiders with his career best 50 tackles, five sacks, and 7.5 tackles for loss. Place-kicker Brian Kelly also took home second team honors. MT's all-time field goal percentage leader put 13 out of 16 attempts through the goal posts.

However, four out of these five great players are seniors, leaving only Kerry Wright, a junior, the chance to repeat his record-breaking season. Also leaving the team is quarterback Andrico Hines who threw for 1,742 of the teams 2,720 yards and punter Robert Billings who kicked 61 times and posted a team leading 42.1 yard avg. With the number of senior standouts leaving, junior Kerry Wright and freshman Eugene Gross are faced with the task of carrying this team through the upcoming 2004 season.

MENS golf

The men's golf team ended its 2002-03 season at the Sun Belt Championships Tournament where they placed eighth.

During the tourney, freshman Josh Nelms led the Raiders with a 228 to tie for No. 28 overall, which was his best finish of the year.

Senior Patrick Williams tied for the No. 31 spot with a 229, while junior Charlie Gibson tied for the No. 34 spot with a 230. Carter Henderson was 36th with a 231, while Blake Bivens scored a 232 to finish in the No. 37 spot.

After the tourney,Williams was named to the All–SBC Team. Williams also led the team in scoring in the 12 tournaments of the season. After 36 rounds of golf and 2,666 strokes, Williams averaged 74.1 and scored a team high average of 67 twice. One of the high scores came at the Fall Beach Classic in Gulf Shores, Ala., and the second occurred at the Chenal Trojan Cup in Little Rock, Ark. He ranked his highest of the season with a third place finish on Nov. 5 at the Fall Beach Classic.

"We had a great tournament," head coach Johnny Moore said at the Fall Beach Classic. "We played our best of the fall season, but it just was not enough. There were some great teams down here and all of them played extremely well. I thought Patrick [Williams] did a great job of managing the course and hitting shots when he had to."

Moore said he hoped this tournament would turn things around for Williams and he would carry that momentum into the spring.

Gibson ended the season with the second spot on the team in stats. With 12 tourneys and 36 rounds of golf, Gibson ended the season with an average of 75.6 after 2,720 strokes on the court. His lowest round came with an average of 69 at the Fall Beach Classic.

Sophomore Blake Bivens, an Etowa, Tenn. native, was the only other Blue Raider to play in all 12 tournaments. After 2,750 strokes, Bivens earned a season average of 76.4 and a 69 average at the Fall Beach Classic.

Henderson participated in 10 of the tourneys, Josh Helms in nine, Taylor Bowers in four, while Kenny Green and Willie Daniel only participated in one tourney.

The Blue Raiders began their 2003-04 season at the Raising Cane Classic in Hattiesburg, Miss., on Sept. 8.

MEN'S tennis

by Amy Jones-Foster

The Middle Tennessee men's tennis team (8-16) finished the 2002-03 season with a third place finish at the Sun Belt Championships in April.

Blue Raider No. 1 seed Daniel Klemetz advanced to the NCAA tournament where he was eliminated during the semi-finals of the tourney.

Klemetz, who was ranked No. 17 at the tournament, defeated the No. 13 ranked Ryan Newport of Texas A&M during the first round of the Singles Championships in Atlanta, Ga. Klemetz was later defeated by No. 3 ranked Amer Delic of Illinois in the semifinals.

"Dan really started slowly, probably a little nervous," Blue Raider head coach Dale Short said after the tourney. "The first set was pretty ugly, and Delic never really gave Dan a chance to get back in the match."

"It ends a brilliant career for Dan," continues Short. "He will be sorely missed both on and off the court at Middle Tennessee."

During Klemetz's senior campaign, he earned such honors as his second All-American honor and Second Team Academic All-District.

The Vanersborg, Sweden, native finished the season at 26-13, which was the best for the Blue Raiders during the '03 season. He was 6-4 indoor and 20-9 outdoors.

Klemetz finished his college career ranked second on the MT all-time list in combined victories behind only Fred Niemeyer, who is currently playing on the professional circuit.

Klemetz, also, soon turned pro after the season and won his first tourney title in August after winning five matches in Jurmala, Latvia.

With only one senior on the squad, the MT juniors also helped lead the team to the SBC tourney.

Juniors Kirk Jackson, Trevor Short and Michael Staniak also contributed to the team.

Jackson, a Melbourne, Australia native, finished the season at 16-18. He was preseason ranked at No. 37 by the Intercollegiate Tennis Association but fell out of rank in March.

During the fall, Jackson was ranked as high as No. 10 in doubles with teammate Klemetz.

Hometown favorite Trevor Short finished the season at 3-10. The Murfreesboro, Tenn., native was 1-4 indoors and 2-6 outdoors during the season with wins over Lee Lester of Eastern Kentucky in September, Nathan Forester of Charleston Southern Jan. 31 and Chris Magnone of Georgia State in March.

Staniak, who did not return to MT for his senior season, finished the season 9-23 and was also never ranked. In doubles he was 15-15 for the season.

The Blue Raiders began their 2003-04 campaign in September by hosting the 17th Pro-AM at Buck Bouldin Tennis Center.

The men's track team started its season at home in the Middle Tennessee Invitational. This event included Western Kentucky University, Tennessee State University, Austin Peay State University and Vanderbilt University. Middle Tennessee freshman Sean Waller headlined for the Blue Raiders in the Middle Tennessee Invitational at Murphy Center, winning one event and running the anchor leg on the winning mile relay team. Junior Mardy Scales also set an NCAA provisional qualifying mark in the one-day event. Waller won the 400-meter for the Blue Raiders in 47.99 and finished second in the long jump behind former Blue Raider All-American Roland McGhee. Waller jumped 24-1 to take second place.

The Blue Raiders continued the season in the same fashion. With a pair of Blue Raiders setting new school records. Mardy Scales shattered the 10.24 mark set by Lloyd McGhee with a 10.02 time in the 100-meter race. Victor Okorie was also put in MT's record book, running the 500-meter hurdle race in 49.19 breaking the 50.14 set back in 1977 by Russell Holloway. The Blue Raider 4 by100 relay team also set a school best by running the course in 38.94. Three Blue Raiders also marked their personal bests: Wesley Depar-Sott in the 200-meter, Sean Waller in the 400-meter and Levi Sybert in the 3000-meter steeplechase.

The Blue Raiders won their third consecutive Sun Belt Conference Indoor Track and Field Championship at the Convocation Center in Jonesboro, Ark.; with the men winning handily. The Blue Raiders romped through the competition, winning by 57 points over second-place Arkansas State, as junior Mardy Scales picked up Outstanding Track Performer and head coach Dean Hayes won his 22nd Coach of the Year honor.

Chuck Akers

by Leah Van Hoozer

Life can sometime seem like a balancing act, especially for college students. Aside from taking classes, many students also juggle jobs, making free time hard to find. Chuck Akers is a student who has quite a full plate of responsibilities and commitments, but he also uses these activities in his life to relieve stress. Besides being a dedicated student with a 3.95 GPA, Chuck is also a third-year starter for the school's baseball team. "[Baseball is] a great way for me to stop worrying about school work or other things going on," says Chuck, which is good for someone who is involved in so much.

When he's not on the baseball field, Chuck and his wife, who are just recently married, are both Young Life volunteers. Chuck uses the "stress-free environment" he finds at Young Life to "focus on others and what they need and not necessarily what is important to me." Although Young Life requires being very devoted, Chuck believes "spending time with younger kids and hopefully mentoring them in some sort of a positive way" is more than enough of a reward. Chuck and the other Young Life volunteers reach out to the kids by being available in different ways. From playing games with the younger kids to leading a Bible study of high school juniors, Chuck takes full advantage of this opportunity to get involved in these kids' lives. Chuck couldn't think of a better person to share this opportunity with than a person he describes as his best friend, his wife Blair.

Once Chuck graduates, he plans to balance his love of the game with a degree in business education "so that if I choose to I could continue to be on the ball field and in the classroom mentoring kids." So what keeps Chuck from getting burned out? "I am very motivated by the fact that many younger people look up to me," he explains. "My family motivates me, my wife motivates me, being the best motivates me and using my God-given talents to the full potential motivates me."

Kenny Green

by Linda G. Selby

Golf is a game where handicap is a common phrase, but in the case of Kenny Green, a new scholarship recipient for golf at MTSU, it means a little more than that. Green was born with a defective eg when the umbilical cord became wrapped around it in the womb and didn't allow the leg to grow. When he was 6 months old, his leg was amputated and he was given a prosthetic limb at 18 months old. He has gone through his entire life with this device and found it to be an nteresting way to joke around with substitute teachers and other kids at chool.

Green, of Clarksville, Tenn., received a full tuition scholarship with he golf team when he transferred to MTSU in the fall of 2002. This vid golfer plays in the low 70s on an average with a plus two handicap. t is general knowledge that many golfers feel that they have hit the big time when they break 90. Fortunately for MTSU, Green will be with the team for several more semesters.

For Green, the most exciting moment in golf was to win the National Amputee championship for two years in a row in 2002 and 2003.

He developed his love of golf at the age of 12 when he began caddying for his dad. He has developed a passion for the game and would like to use his business management major to get a job as golf pro and possibly enter the professional golf arena.

Green chose to come to MTSU because of his high school sweetheart Christie Campbell. Green and Campbell met as friends in high school, started dating and Green followed here her to MTSU where she was already a student. Because of Campbell, another big development happened in Green's life. He proposed to Campbell last year and the two plan to get married following their graduation in 2005.

Daniel Klementz

by Jessy Yancey

Daniel Klementz went to an award banquet in the spring of 2002 to receive a regional award for his outstanding achievements in tennis. When the announcement for the winner of the most prestigious national award in tennis began, the graduating senior realized that he had a lot in common with the winner of the Tennis Magazine/Arthur Ashe, Jr. Sportsmanship and Leadership Award; the same major, the same nickname and many other similarities.

"My first reaction was, 'Whoa, that's me,'" recalls Klementz, who was chosen from more than 3000 collegiate tennis players nationwide. "I was caught by surprise, but it was a great honor to win the award."

Klementz began playing tennis at age 6 in his home country of Sweden, where he resides since graduating from MTSU.

"My whole family plays," says Klementz. "Not competitive tennis, but they are fairly good."

Klemetz chose to come to the United States to play sports because in Sweden sports are not played at college.

"The team atmosphere is completely new," he says. "The game itself is the same, but the surroundings are different."

Tennis coach Dale Short was a great help to Klementz throughout his time with the Blue Raiders. "He is a big reason why I developed my game," acknowledges Klementz. "He emphasized what I hadn't been taught, both technique-wise and the mental part."

Klemetz is currently back in Sweden and is first going to try his hand at professional tennis.

Both of Klementz's parents support their award-winning son. "My dad gets more and more into it as the years go by," says the pro-tennis hopeful, "which gets me more and more into it."

Laura Miguez

by Micah Miller

As a junior, Laura Miguez is already second all-time in assists, fourth in points, and sixth in goals. However, if it was not for her father, Ramon Miguez, she would not be in a Blue Raider uniform. " When I moved to Dallas in first grade, my dad told me I had to play some sport, whatever I chose, and I cried and cried and said I didn't want to do anything," said Miguez. Miguez's friend across the street was going out for the soccer team and asked Miguez to play with her. Miguez added, "I used to cry all the time, and I didn't ever want to go. My first year, I had to do it, but then the second year, I wanted to do it. And I've been playing ever since."

Coming to MT as a recruit of former coach Scott Ginn, her work ethic has gained the respect of current head coach, Aston Rhoden. He said, "Laura has one of those never-give-up attitudes…She's going to work from first whistle to last." This attitude has also gained Miguez a starting position in every game since her freshman year.

With her junior and senior year ahead, Miguez has the opportunity and skills to break other records. However, she says she could care less about her personal records. "I didn't even know of any records until the media guide came out and I was reading through it … I think soccer is a team sport, and as long as you're focused on the team and not yourself, then that's how you'll play well," said Miguez.

Miguez looks ahead with one goal in mind for her team. "We want to end up in the top two in the conference and make it to the finals in the conference tournament or the NCAA tourney. As for a personal goal, I just need to finish all the opportunities the team gives me. If I only get one shot a game, finish it, because my team gave me one shot."

Makin Music

MTSU Style

by Amy Taylor

Everybody likes the Band of Blue!" exclaims professor Craig Cornish. The football team isn't the only student group that uses the football turf to show off their talent. The Band of Blue is known for its awesome sound and massive talent during football halftime shows at every home game. This year, the 245-member group blasted away tunes from Earth, Wind and Fire, the big bands of 1940, the super soul/funk group Tower of Power and K.C. and the Sunshine Band.

Aside from wowing its audience, the Band of Blue excels because of its love of music and a desire to help the university. The Band of Blue maintains the honored distinctions of being one of the best university bands in the country. Cornish adds, "Everywhere we go, people are impressed with the band's behavior, spirit and performance level, and that reflects well on MTSU."

Ironically, the majority of students in the band are not music majors. Cornish clarifies the common misconception: "They are students who like music, enjoy band and want to help out the university in their own unique way. Most of them use the Band of Blue as a vacation from their regular school duties. Historically, non-majors enjoy the Band of Blue more than music majors."

The band is also popularly known for sponsoring the Contest of Champions every fall. Some of the country's best high school marching bands attend this competition at the end of marching band season. Here, the Band of Blue makes a guest performance and wows high school students from across the state. The high level of ability and the occasion to have fun makes the Band of Blue a hot commodity for potential students.

The real benefits that Band of Blue students come away with is a sense of hard work, goal setting and music making. The Band of Blue establishes a lifelong bond linked to a college experience that is unlike any other.

Blue and white is flying through the air, tumbling across the floor and piling into pyramids of people. What is causing all this color? Why the spirit of the Blue Raiders, of course. Students are chosen to cheer for MTSU by becoming part of the 16-member Blue Squad, the 14-member White Squad or the first ever All-Girl Squad. Totaling 50 members, three squads together make up one large group of cheerful individuals.

"The best part for me has been learning all the new stunts and meeting some wonderful new people," explains Amy Koelz. "It really makes college more fun when you start the year with so many new friends."

The most important part of becoming an MTSU cheerleader is the tryouts. After students become part of the squad, they are required to attend practices, fund-raisers, pre-camp, college cheer camp and any events sponsored by MTSU Cheerleading. The Blue Squad members cheer for football and basketball, while the White Squad and the All-Girl Squad cheer primarily for basketball home games.

"Cheering at MTSU is not as easy as people make it out to be," explains Brittany King, a freshman member of the Blue Squad. "It is all year. We have practices three times a week and work-outs twice a week. Plus, we have appearances and games." With all the time spent together squad members become close friends. "We know that we always have someone to go to if we need someone," she continues. "It's like a second family."

The three squads work hard throughout the year. "They are very strong at pyramids, basket tosses and tumbling," says coach Jonathan Pursley. "They always seem to go above and beyond."

Coach Pursley says he strives for the same thing as all coaches: "To be the best. To work hard, cheer harder and, come April, walk away with a national championship."

Dance Team

by Deanna Bauer

The cheers and dances the MTSU Dance Team performs to entertain and pump up Middle Tennessee sports fans are just as explosive this year as last. This year the dance team split into two sub-squads: the 12-member Blue Lightning team and the 15-member Silver Lightning team. The Blue squad energizes the crowds with pom and jazz routines at MT pep rallies and halftime shows, while the Silver squad cheers and dances on the sidelines at basketball games and competes in the National Collegiate Dance Team Championship.

The Silver squad, captained by fourth-year exercise major Samantha Caffy, focuses a lot of its energy on improving the team's competition standings. "Hopefully it will give us a better chance at Nationals," she says.

To become part of the team, all dancers, including returning members, have to go through tryouts in early April. The three-day affair lets candidates show off the leaps, turns and routines they're required to memorize and perform to display technical "dancibility" and "speed learning," explains dance team coach LaTonya Vaughn.

The dancers' determination to become a great team doesn't stop at tryouts. In addition to Blue team practices with the Band of Blue and summer dance camp, both squads practice two to three days per week during their active seasons and commit to 45 minutes of cardio and weightlifting three days a week. Members must also take a Pilates class and participate in one team workout each week. "It's good to have other people there encouraging you on," reveals Caffy.

Caffy says that the best part of being on the dance team is "just dancing." According to Vaughn, "It's the dancers' passion for dance, dedication, and caring about the university and their role on the team that makes the dance team successful."

MTSU MASCOT

Do you know Steven Helton? You probably do, but you don't realize it. He is better known around campus as this year's Lightning, the Blue Raiders' mascot. He's always on the go, but he can be spotted at any athletic event on campus.

Previously a multiple-student task, this year the job of Lightning went to a single student. Helton is a junior from the small town of Viola, population 132, located in Warren County, Tenn., where his family runs a cattle farm. He was president of Future Farmers of America at Warren County High School and ran for both the track and cross country teams. Needless to say, in the past, Helton was not the typical cheerleader type, but when he was approached by the president of his fraternity, who was very enthusiastic about the mascot tryouts, Helton says, "I thought I'd give it a shot." Helton adds that he was not sure what his odds were in actually becoming the mascot: "[During tryouts] there were three to five skits that I had to perform. Then I had to demonstrate how well I could move around in the suit in front of a crowd. Being able to stay in character had a lot to do with the audition, too."

Between sporting events, fraternity life in Alpha Gamma Rho and maintaining his academic position on the Dean's List, Helton manages a great attitude and a love for MTSU. His main problem, he says, is spreading himself too thin: "It's often hard to find a peaceful moment because I like to volunteer for everything that I can on campus." Helton is an agribusiness major and is heavily involved in the agriculture program. He helps with such events as Farm Day, where local elementary school children come to campus to visit the livestock, and he is a leader in the collegiate Future Farmers of America. Helton has also worked on such campus projects as the alternative fuel electric truck and has helped to build a hydrogen-fueled car as well as a soybean-fueled car.

Helton says he plans to accomplish a lot by being Lightning. "MTSU is growing, and I'm in the middle of it," he says. "In 30 years I can look back and tell my kids that I was Lightning. It's amazing that at MTSU, I have the opportunity to actually make history!"

The Middle Tennessee's men's basketball team was not the only team to make the Sun Belt Conference championship game during the 2002-03 season.

MT head coach Stephany Smith and the Lady Raiders also took on the Lady Hilltoppers of the Western Kentucky University on March 11 in the championship game.

Western Kentucky took a late 86-83 win over MT to claim the SBC championship.

"I'm proud of how hard we fought and how we refused to give up," Smith said following the championship game.

After that loss, the Lady Raiders finished the season with an 18-12 record and a 9-5 in the SBC.

Parviainen, a Helsinki, Finland, native, started all 30 games during her senior season. The 6-foot-1-inch forward recorded 206 points and averaged 6.9 points per game. Parviainen also sank 28 three-pointers.

Penttila started 26 of 30 games on the season and racked up 195 points at the guard position. The Lahti, Finland, native sank 22 three-pointers and had a .382 hitting percentage from the line.

Leading the Lady Raiders in scoring for the season was 5-foot-9-inch sophomore Patrice Holmes with 512 points and a 17.1 points per game average.

Holmes also sank the most three-pointers on the year with 35. She also stepped up to the foul line 413 times and sank 194 of them. In addition, she averaged 27 points per game during the SBC tourney.

Freshman Tia Stovall was next in line in points with 251 on the season and average of 12.6 per game. Stovall was second on the list in foul shot points with 98 out of 173 attempted.

With the loss of only two seniors, the Lady Raiders are looking to return to the SBC championship for another match against SBC-foe Western Kentucky.

With the opening of the 2003 season at the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga, it was apparent that the season would be a constant uphill struggle for the Lady Raiders with their best finishes coming from Kim Alsobrook (45th), Erin Russell (48th), and Lauren Milborne (49th). "All the girls ran OK. We have a really young group with basically no experience," said head coach Dean Hayes.

Then came the Commodore Invitational, which proved to be even tougher than the UTC opener. Freshman Kim Alsobrook led the Lady Raider harriers at the Commodore Invitational, finishing 68th in 22:57.60 in the 5K run at Percy Warner Park. Erin Russell was next for Middle Tennessee, running 23:22.64 to place 72nd, while Lauren Milbourn came in 77th in 23:58.41. Jo-Marie Thaggard finished in 24:30.64 to place 84th, with Kerry Barrow rounding out the five runners in 32:36.00 (108th).

The Lady Raiders fared best in the Western Kentucky University Old Timers Classic. Freshman Kim Alsobrook led the Lady Raiders, placing 32nd in a time of 27:36.90 on the 6K course. Redshirt freshman Lauren Milbourn came in 35th (28:41.55), while freshman Jo-Marie Thaggard was 37th (29:31.54). Junior Erin Russell finished 38th (39:36.43), with junior Kishara George 39th (33:18.92) and freshman Contrena Brown 40th (38:27.07). Sophomore Kerry Barrow (41st, 38:28.95), freshman Kristin Marcus (42nd, 46:09.81) and freshman Tiffany Owens (43rd, 46:11.09) rounded out the Lady Raiders contingent. With freshmen to lead the Lady Raider Cross Country team, the team can look forward to bigger and brighter things. Hoping not to repeat their last place finish in the Sun Belt Conference tournament, the Lady Raiders realized what they needed to place higher in the pack: hard work and dedication. The Lady Raiders have until next season to ready themselves for victory.

The Lady Raider golf team recorded its best finish of the fall season by placing third at the John Kirk/Lady Panther Intercollegiate. The Lady Raiders shot a 36-hole total of 617 on the par 72 Eagles Landing Country Club course. The Lady Raiders finished just four shots back of tournament winner Jacksonville State, which carded a 613. Southern Miss was second with a 615. Middle Tennessee's Maggie McGill had a 75 in the final round to place in a tie for second overall. It marked the best collegiate finish for the freshman from Bowling Green, KY. McGill had a two-round total of 148. This marked the final tournament of the fall for the Lady Raiders, who would not be back on the links until Spring 2004 at the Golden Panther Championship in Miami, FL.

In 2003, Jenny Kim became the first South Korean to swing a club at MTSU. The freshman came to school this fall from King's Academy in Knoxville through Chicago, by way of Seoul, South Korea. While her long journey to Murfreesboro would be an amazing story in its own right, there's a minor detail that makes it even more miraculous. Jenny Kim, who won the TSSAA State Championship as a senior, never played golf until the summer before her junior year of high school. "In South Korea, you either choose between academics or athletics," Kim said. "If you choose academics, that's it ... that's your life. I always thought that (if I choose to play a sport) then I'd get as far as I could go with the sport and I'd have totally neglected my academics."

Head coach Racheal Moore recruited in the off-season and landed three elite players. Taryn Durham from Glasgow, KY, Jamey Dillard out of Madison, TN, and Taylor Cooper from Clarksville, TN, will all be joining the Lady Raider program for the 2004 fall season. "I think all three of these girls will make an immediate impact on this program," Moore said. "They each have the ability to take this team to the next level and I am looking for great things out of this year's class."

The Blue Raider soccer team was hands-down the most successful of all of the MT fall sports, with senior standouts Jenny Cox and Emily Carter aiding to the magnificent play of junior Laura Miguez. The 2003 season was capped off by the Blue Raiders receiving the BRASS Outreach community service reward. This award is given to the team with the most community service time logged.

The 2003 season was also marked as the most successful season for the Blue Raider soccer team. Head coach Aston Rhoden was named Sun Belt Conference Coach of the Year after leading the Raiders to an 11-win season including five conference wins. Also, the Raiders had five players named to the all SBC team. A pair of Blue Raiders were voted to the First Team, senior Emily Carter and junior Jessica Northcutt. Carter ranks third in points with 13, scoring six goals and adding an assist, and has three game-winners. Northcutt, a junior outside defender, began the year as inexperienced as the three freshmen she plays alongside in the back but has developed into the team's stopper, marking the opposition's best player in starting every match. Northcutt shut down Marilyn Marin of North Texas and Crystal Chapon of Western Kentucky, limiting two of the league's most potent scorers to a combined one point in the two matches this season. Northcutt's physical presence combined with excellent speed has limited touches for opposing forwards all season. She also is part of the Blue Raider defense that allowed just 24 goals in 19 matches for a 1.23 goals-against-average with three freshmen defenders starting in the back, and just nine scores in the eight conference matches this season. Middle Tennessee's two leading scorers, junior Laura Miguez and freshman Rebecca Rodriguez, each earned Second Team honors, as did newcomer Claire Ward. With the duo of Miguez and Rodriguez to lead the Raiders into the 2004 season, the possibility of another great season is apparent.

Women's softball

After a slow start in 2003, the Lady Raider softball team ended the season with a winning record of 32-20 and a Sun Belt Conference record of 8-8.

MT ended its 2003 campaign with a 1-0, 13-inning loss to Western Kentucky during the SBC tournament on May 9.

With the end of the season, came the end of four Lady Raiders' college careers. Four seniors rounded off their careers with high marks.

Senior Stacy Preator finished the season and her career as the team's No. 1 spot pitcher with a 22-9 record and a 1.68 ERA.

In 183.2 innings pitched, Preator struck out 181 opponents and walked only 21. Opponents only tallied a .205 batting average against the California standout.

Senior Kip Phillips ended the season with a starting position at centerfield in all 52 games. Phillips was No. 7 on the team in batting with a .267 BA and committed only three errors on the season.

Starting at first base, senior Megan Cherinka placed second on the team in batting average with .333. She recorded 50 hits, three homeruns and eight doubles while starting in all 52 games. Cherinka, an El Dorado Hills, Calif. native, only committed two errors on the season.

Rounding out the seniors was outfielder Erica Buhl. Buhl started all 52 games and placed second on the Lady Raider season stat book with a .310 BA. She recorded seven doubles and three homeruns and only committed four errors while on the field.

Junior transfer student Courtney Mitchell led the Lady Raiders in batting with a .417 BA in 163 at bats. She had a record 25 doubles on the season, which was good enough to win the NCAA Division I Softball Doubles Title in July.

Mitchell also started all 52 games and hit the most homeruns on the team with seven.

Shortly behind Mitchell in homeruns was sophomore third baseman Dani DeCamino. She recorded six homeruns and six doubles on a .282 BA.

Mitchell and infielder Kristina Hieb were recently chosen as the 2004 season captains.

The Lady Raiders tennis team ended its 2002-03 season after junior Manon Kruse and senior Stacy Varnell fell in the NCAA Doubles Tournament in May.

Kruse and Varnell fell in the opening round 6-4, 6-1 to in-state rival and No. 3 seeded Sarah Riske and Aleke Tsoubanos of Vanderbilt University at the University of Florida campus on May 21. The pair faced the Vandy duo earlier in the spring season and lost 8-1.

The Intercollegiate Tennis Association ranked the Lady Raider duo No. 19 going into the tournament.

This loss marked the end of Varnell's college career. She leaves Middle Tennessee holding the record for most doubles wins in a career with 92.

Kruse also represented MT in the NCAA Singles Championship in Florida. She lost to Jewel Peterson of Southern California 6-3,7-5 in the opening round of the tourney.

"I was really proud of the way Manon competed," head coach Randy Holden said. "Manon put herself in the situation to win, but Jewel Peterson stepped it up at just the right time."

Kruse, a Hamm, Germany native, will go into her senior season as the Lady Raiders' No. 1 seed player.

The Lady Raider team (11-11) as a whole finished No. 5 in the Sun Belt Conference Tournament after going into the tourney in the No. 3 seed position. The 2003 tourney took place at the Mobile Tennis Center in Mobile, Ala.

Doubles partners Jennifer Klaschka and Laura McNamara closed out the spring with a perfect record of 8-3 with a final win over the University of New Orleans's Liselott Hidenberg and Ana Santoro. The duo ended the season 10-0 in the No. 3 spot.

Junior Carien Venter posted two wins during the SBC Tourney with a 7-6, 1-6, 6-3 win over New Mexico State's Lejila Probic. The Pretoria, South Africa native also took a 6-2, 6-4 win over Laetitina Zembski of New Orleans.

The Lady Raiders began their 2003-04 campaign at the Furman Invitational in Greenville, S.C., in September. The squad will then headed to Lexington, Ky., for the University of Kentucky Invitational in October.

Womens track

by Micah Miller

Women's track started the 2002-2003 season with a strong finish in the Middle Tennessee Invitational. Jerkita McClorin returned after missing last season and won the 55-meter hurdles in 8.23, while freshman Candice Robertson took third in the event. Nicolette Jarrett and Kishara George finished second and third, respectively, in the 400-meter. LaToya Brown tied for second in the high jump with a mark of 5-2, and Letitia Eady was third in the long jump with a mark of 18-6.

The next event was the Kentucky Invitational, which proved to be a fine day for the Lady Raider track team. Sophomores Rosemary Okafor and Jennifer Howard and freshman Meaghan Byrd, all set school records at Nutter Field house. Okafor ran 53.66 in the 400-meter to win the event and best the school record by almost two seconds previously set in 1996 by Nadia Graham. The mark is also an NCAA provisional qualifying time for Okafor which could qualify for the NCAA Championships. The Lady Raiders finished 1-4-5 in the 400-meter, with Nicolette Jarrett and Lanora Gray finishing just one-hundredth of a second apart in fourth and fifth, respectively. Howard set a new school-record in the pole vault, clearing 10-8.25 to better her own mark by 8.25. Howard jumped 10-feet last season as the first Lady Raider to compete in the event. Byrd, who also competes in volleyball for Middle Tennessee, was the final Lady Raider to put her name in the record books. Byrd had a mark of 38-7.5 in the 20-lb. weight throw. Byrd also finished seventh in the shot put with a mark of 40-3.25. In the triple jump, Eady and Kim Freeman took third and fourth with marks of 39-5, while sophomore McClorin finished sixth in the 60-meter hurdles in 8.76.

The Lady Raider track team went on to win in the Sun Belt Conference title. With the record setters poised for a repeat, the success of the 2002-2003 season will likely carry over to the 2003-2004 season.

Womens volleyball

by Micah Miller

The Lady Raiders volleyball team finished the 2003 season with a 14-18 overall record and a 5-9 Sun Belt Conference record. This gives head coach Lisa Kissee a 136-160 record in her nine years of coaching at MTSU.

However, at the end of the season the athletic department decided not to continue Kissee's contract. "We wish Lisa the best in her future endeavors," said associate athletic director and senior women's administrator Diane Turnham. "But after extended review of the program and extensive discussions with athletic director Boots Donnelly, we concluded that at this time in our history it is best to take the volleyball program in a new direction."

The Lady Raiders were led by junior outside hitter KeKe Deckard who was named to the all-conference second team and had 553 kills. Deckard now holds the career record with 1,494 kills. Goldie Bilyeu led the Lady Raiders with 648 sets and Karisse Baker heightened the Raider defense with 30 blocked shots. Baker also was the only Lady Raider to play in all of MT's 127 games.

With a quick put out in the first round of the Sun Belt Conference tournament by Western Kentucky, and no idea who will be the next MT volleyball coach, doubts arise as to the fate of the team as they prepare for the 2004 season. The only thing to look forward to is that the standout players from this season will also be around next season to possibly out do themselves.

PARKRIDGE
Medical Center

Parkridge Medical Center, Inc., which includes East Ridge Hospital and Valley Hospital has been recognized nationally for excellence numerous times. In December 2002, Parkridge Medical Center, Inc.
Was named as one of the 100 Top Hospitals in the nation in an independent study released by the Solucient Leadership Institute, as well as a 1999 100 Top Hospitals: Orthopedic Benchmarks for Success Study.
Both Parkridge Medical Center and East Ridge Hospital : Number 1 in the state of Tennessee for Orthopedic Surgery in 2004.

Parkridge Medical Center:
Serving the community since 1971, Parkridge Medical Center provides a full range of services offering the highest quality of care. Parkridge has just completed a $36 million expansion and renovation project in 2003. The project has doubled the size of the Emergency Center, modernized patient rooms, enhanced parking, and added the 12,000 square foot Sarah Cannon Cancer Center. Licensed for 296 beds, Parkridge serves residents throughout the tri-state region. Our medical staff includes over 650 physicians, representing nearly every medical specialty.

Parkridge Medical Center was the first facility in the Chattanooga area, and the second in the state of Tennessee to offer Robotics Surgery.

Areas of specialty include: Cardiac Services, The Sarah Cannon Cancer Center, Surgical Services, Orthopedics and Sports Medicine Services, and Gastroenterology Services.

These are just a few of the areas of expertise that are offered at this facility.

East Ridge Hospital:

Founded in 1974 as a community hospital, East Ridge Hospital is located in a suburb of Chattanooga, Tennessee. The hospital is easily accessible from area expressways and neighborhood roads. East Ridge Hospital recently completed an $8 million renovation. A new 16 bed Emergency Care Center is conveniently located at the front of the hospital. Licensed for 128 beds and having more than 300 physicians on staff representing almost all medical specialties, you are assured of the highest quality care.

Areas of specialty include: The Women's Center, Neonatal Intensive Care Nursery, The Spine and Orthopedic Center, The East Ridge Fitness Center.

Valley Hospital:

Valley Hospital has served the tri-state area for 30 years, providing unparalleled expertise in treating a broad range of behavioral care and chemical dependency problems.

Its programs are anchored by the 124 bed Valley Hospital, which is located on 80 acres of woodland in the heart of Chattanooga. Valley provides the region's most comprehensive range of services, including inpatient, outpatient and partial hospitalization programs for children and adolescents, adults and senior citizens. Valley has a state-accredited school to help meet the educational needs of its younger patients.

A talented multi-disciplinary team of mental health specialists, including psychiatrists, psychologists, psychiatric nurses, social workers, activity therapists and counselors carry out the hospital's mission.

Areas of specialty include: Child and Adolescent Services, Adult Services, Employee Assistance Programs, and Ropes Adventure Course.

Each facility has full Pharmaceutical Services. We are currently recruiting Pharmacists as well as Nursing Staff.

Words to live by...

"Failure is never quite so frightening as regret. Aim for the sky, and reach for the stars."

"Let no one be deluded that a knowledge of the path can be substituted for putting one foot in front of the other."

"Knowledge is the power of the mind. Wisdom is the power of the soul."

"Every great achievement is the product of either great risk or great sacrifice."

"You better believe in yourself—if you don't, who else will?"

from the

Like all the other editors before me I have to say the infamous words: "Wow, I can't believe it's done." These past months and semesters have seemed like a roller coaster of holding my breath at deadline time to victorious celebration when each deadline was met. But now that it is finally over, I am proud to present the 2004 Midlander to you, the student.

However, this was not my project or work alone. If it had been solely me working on the book, you would not be holding one now. My staff deserves a majority of the praise. Because without their tireless work and stubborn determination, this book would have fallen apart before the first page was sent to the publisher.

My utmost praise goes to my assistant editor Amy Taylor who supported me even when I thought we wouldn't meet deadlines. Without her positive attitude and willing helpfulness in the office I could not have made the page count or met deadlines on time.

My second round of thanks has to go to Tabitha Taylor, Samantha Meeks and Micah Miller. These staff members stepped in to help wherever necessary. I used them as writers for stories that needed to be wrote, photographers for those events that no one wanted to cover and gophers for things that I just didn't have the time to do. Without these hard-working, faithful staff members, the book would not have been made possible.

And I cannot forget Kolby Conway. Without her style and design expertise the book would look dull and uninteresting. Every-thing that Kolby touches turned into a work of art and I hope that you, the reader, enjoyed each page as you flipped through the book.

I have to thank my editorial staff as well. Without the help of Amy Jones-Foster I would not have numerous photographs as well as half the stories for the sports section. Jessy Yancey also deserves my adamant praise. She worked on each story to make sure everything sounded perfect before sending the pages to be printed.

My writers and photographers deserve praise for their contributions to this book. I cannot name everyone for fear that I would carelessly leave someone's name out. But without their contribution, there would be no stories and photographs in this book.

Lastly, I have to thank Jenny Crouch for pushing me to do something that I never thought that I would be able to do. Without her confidence in my ability to manage and produce a yearbook, I would have failed in my self-doubt. Also, the Student Publications accounts executive Brenda Denney deserves recognition for her organization of the office and rounding up forgotten equipment from staff members. And Patience Cohee cannot be left out. Without her wit and enthusiasm while I was working, I would have gone crazy with stress and frustration.

Without all of these people's help, plus more influences that pushed me work at creating the best book in the last several years, I was able to present to you, the student, the 2004 Midlander.

For most of us, our lives' journeys are at pivotal points. We are at that time when we are deciding what it is we want to be and to achieve and are trying to determine what type of person it is we want to be as we go through life. Attending MTSU provides us with the academic and extracurricular experiences that will help in making those decisions. And while we enter these hallowed halls with a strong sense of who we may be, we leave as changed people, older, wiser, and more capable. The academic experience alone provides us with new and different perspectives, but the student life experience often provides us more real-life experiences than we could have imagined.

Our journey has taken us through a year at MTSU, and we have tried to represent that year in the pages of this book as best as possible. While all events are not captured or represented, we hope we have selected some of the events that are pivotal to many. Capturing a year's worth of the culture, diversity, issue and events that represent the entirety of this campus is a challenge. We make our decisions based on our perspectives of what may be milestones in the university's life. We hope that what we have represented in these pages will help you recall those events that we may have overlooked or underplayed.

We each see differently from different points, from different perspectives, just as if we were looking at life through prisms. That we journey so close for a point in time, that we have many of the same guideposts but that we leave with so many different perspectives provides a metaphoric common ground for those that matriculate and work here.

We hope we have captured for you a few of MTSU's points and that you appreciate the perspective as we continue our journeys ....

The Recreation Center is lit up for Up Til Dawn festivities. The Rec Center is also the place for students wanting to keep in shape while staying busy with school work and jobs.
